BY ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT.

[Copyright: 1918: By Press Publishing Company (New York World).]

PETROGRAD, via London, Jan. 2.—Because of difficulties over Lithuania, Livonia, Courland, and Poland, which, it would appear, the Germans are planning to add to the German empire, the peace negotiations at Brest-Litovsk have been broken off.

The Germans are massing troops opposite Dvinsk (on the Dvina river, 122 miles southeast of Riga). Persistent rumors give that as one of the causes of the interruption in the negotiations.

Information from Stockholm indicates that the German junkers are enraged over the victory of the diplomatic circles in inducing the kaiser to agree to a democratic peace and refusing to accede to the plotting with Russian monarchists.

Allies May Gain Power.

In the event that the Bolshevik government has further trouble with the Germans, there are indications that the government will receive the active support of the allied governments. The consistent course of the Bolsheviki for a general peace, not merely trying to save peace for Russia, is having its effect on the attitude of the allied representatives in Petrograd.

If the allied support is open and energetic it probably would bring all Russia again on a united front against Germany.

However, there are those who are not so optimistic and who believe the kaiser's agents, seeing possible failure of the negotiations, will grant further concessions that will bring the Bolsheviki back into line.

Why Russians Refused.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PETROGRAD, Jan. 2.—The chances of a separate peace between Russia and the central powers being effected seem remote, because of what are regarded as Germany's unreasonable demands.

Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevik foreign minister, and his associates take the stand that the Baltic provinces are in reality under military pressure while they continue to be occupied by Germany and that their votes with respect to peace must be ignored, as now these provinces are virtually German dependencies, the loyal Russians having fled.

Council Upholds Refusal.

The Russian delegation upon its return from Brest-Litovsk Tuesday laid before the council of commissioners at Petrograd Germany's demand, which caused amazement and the declaration that the council was not favorable to acceptance.

An elaboration of the German position in letters and statements which followed the general statement of terms, showed that the Germans hold that Poland, Lithuania, Courland, Livonia, and Esthonia have already defined themselves nationally within the meaning of the peace terms proposed, and insist that they shall not vote again.

The Germans also explained, through Gen. Hoffman, that Germany cannot evacuate Riga, Libau, and other occupied points until certain that all Russia sanctions peace; otherwise Ger-

BRITISH LOSE 18 BIG SHIPS; FRENCH TOLL 9

Sinking More U-Boats than Foe Builds, Is Allies' Claim.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Eighteen British merchantmen of 1,600 tons or over have been sunk by mine or submarine during the last week, according to the admiralty statement tonight. Three merchantmen under 1,600 tons were also sunk. This is a material increase over the previous week, when the sinkings numbered twelve, of which eleven were more than 1,600 tons.

The total losses of British merchant ships since Germany began the submarine warfare are 1,175, according to the weekly reports issued by the British admiralty.

During the week 2,111 merchant ships arrived in British ports and 2,074 sailed.

Eight vessels were unsuccessfully attacked.

Losses Near Low Record.

Although the sinkings of ships of large tonnage in the last week have been rather heavy, the total for December is characterized as satisfactory, being only slightly larger than for November, which established a low record.

The tonnage sunk during December was well below that of any month previous to September. Against this, however, the sinkings of submarines were greater in December than in any previous month since the war began.

Naval men declare that more submarines were sunk in December than the German shipyards were able to launch, so the German submarine navy may now be said to have begun actually to shrink.

Shrinkage in Losses.

The decrease in losses during the last ten weeks of 1917, compared to those of the first ten weeks of intensified warfare [last spring] is shown in this record:

FIRST TEN WEEKS.

Reports of encounters with submarines in the last three months indicate that whatever improvements have been made in the U-boats they are not nearly so efficient or deadly as they were earlier in 1917.

Nine French Boats Sunk.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—Nine French merchant ships of more than 1,600 tons were sunk by submarines or mines during the week ending Dec. 29. There was no loss of vessels under 1,600 tons or of fishing ships. Two attacks on steamers failed. The current report on French shipping losses gives the largest total since the last week of November.

One Italian Ship Lost.

ROME, Jan. 2.—Enemy submarines during the week ending Dec. 29 sunk one Italian steamship of more than 1,500 tons and one sailing vessel of less than 100 tons. Two steamers which were attacked managed to escape.

HOOVER URGES LAWS TO RULE BILL OF FARE

Assails Hotels and Cafes Ignoring Food Thrift.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—The food administration is not getting the results that it expected. Food Administrator Hoover told a senate committee that laws should be passed to regulate the amounts and kinds of food to be served in hotels and restaurants.

He said these eating places had declined to cooperate with the administration and that power was needed to compel them to help conservate the food supply, including sugar.

Those seeking to help had been forced to abandon their efforts, Mr. Hoover said, in order to meet competition. The witness believed housewives generally were conforming to the conservation recommendations.

Makes Spreckels Target.

Mr. Hoover frankly told the committee that testimony given by Claus Spreckels to the effect that there was no sugar shortage had injured the food conservation program, and that he had deemed it necessary to answer Spreckels publicly when he could not get before the committee immediately.

Mr. Hoover said a statement from him alone would carry conviction to the American people, and that was why President Wilson had made public his answer to Spreckels after the committee on manufactures had refused to incorporate it in its record of the inquiry.

Hoover Goaded to Statement.

Senator Reed, chairman of the committee, goaded Administrator Hoover into this statement. Owing to repeated controversies between Senator Reed and the food adminstrator, the chairman had refrained from questioning the witness most of the day, leaving that duty to Senator Lodge. But when Mr. Hoover, through Senator Jones of New Mexico, attempted to get into the record the identical statement which had been refused by the committee and later published by the president Senater Reed could hold back no longer.

"Did you feel you had to take this statement to the president to get it published?" he asked sarcastically.

Mr. Hoover replied that he had been informed it would be considered a discourtesy to the senate committee for him to give it out when the committee had refused to accept it.

"I suppose that it was not discourteous for the president to have it published," Senator Reed suggested.

Complains of Treatment.

Mr. Hoover explained he had sent the statement to the president at the same time that he had sent it to the senate committee. He complained with heat that he had not been given a chance immediately to answer the testimony of Spreckels.

Senator Reed called attention to the fact that President Babst of the American Sugar Refining company, a member of the international sugar commission, had been put on the stand.

"Surely you did not consider his testimony inimical," Senator Reed said.

"I have no opinion of Mr. Babst's testimony to give," Mr. Hoover snapped. "It is not a fair question."

"You are getting a little heated," Senator Reed said, "and I hope we can conduct this examination without heat."

Kept Price Down: Hoover.

During his examination by Senator Lodge, Mr. Hoover insisted that if it had not been for the agreement which the food administration had persuaded the sugar refiners to make prices for sugar would have been "out of sight" in this country today. He said the food administration had kept the prices down.

"What's the use of keeping the prices down if there is no sugar to be had at any price?" Senator Lodge asked.

Mr. Hoover replied there was 80 per cent of the supply normally demanded by the American people, and that the inequality of distribution, due to lack of freight cars, had caused the trouble.

Mr. Hoover told the committee that he was not given sufficient authority under the food law to deal with the situation "as it has developed." He said he should be given authority to go into the market and buy sugar for the government, as in the case of wheat.

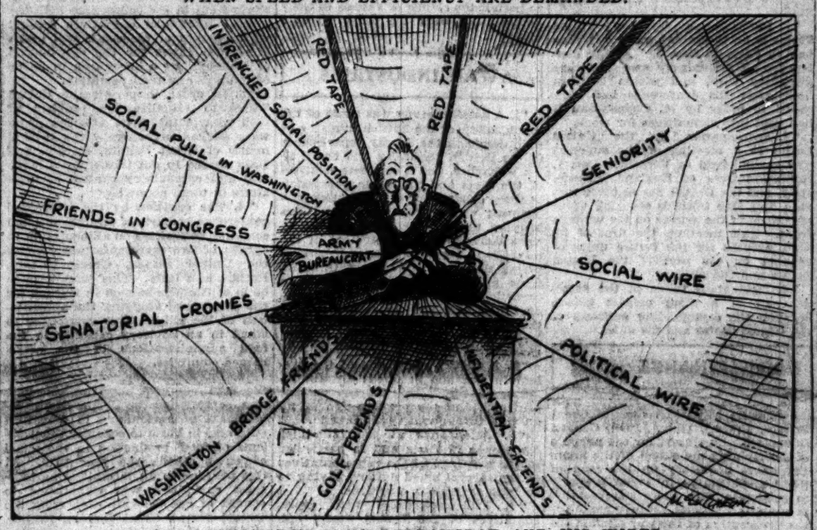

Congress, he pointed out, had given only $2,500,000 for the administrative work, although it had appropriated $150,000,000 with which to go into the market and purchase wheat. He said he had been compelled to get money from the president's $100,000,000 emergency war fund to help out.

REPORTS ALLIES 'EXTERMINATED' IN SIBERIA CITY

PETROGRAD, Monday, Dec. 31.—A dispatch to the British embassy from the British consul at Harbin, Manchuria, says the British and French residents of Irkutsk, Siberia, have been "exterminated" in the recent fighting against the Bolshevik forces.

The dispatch adds that Irkutsk was under heavy bombardment for two days and much property was destroyed.

The embassy is inclined to believe that the word "exterminated" is an exaggeration. Although there are no official figures at hand, it is said that there are not more than fifteen French and British residents in Irkutsk. It is not known whether any Americans were there, although it is believed there were not.

POLICE HORDES DRIVE TO PEACE, BUT NO VICTORY

And Besieged Woman Has Last Laugh After Defeat.

When history shall have finished with the slight unpleasantness that engages Europe there will be plenty of time to set down in orderly fashion the incidents of warfare which last night kept Miss June Martin of 3952 Indiana avenue busy hotfooting from front to rear of her apartment to stay off the impetuous advance of a cordon of police. Just now there is only time to adjust the circumstances to exigencies of the pressroom.

Miss Martin was suspected of having men about. Two detectives applied at her door to ascertain the truth of this charge, but that was as far as they went.

Stopped by Pistol.

They found themselves surveying the nervous end of a pistol in the hands of Miss Martin, who coldly asserted she would jolly well blow their silly heads off if they didn't pass along.

Heigh ho! for the human race. The detectives grew curious. They demanded entrance.

"Now," said Miss Martin, "you grafters think you're so smart, I'd like to see you come in here. I don't entertain men visitors in this flat and if I did it wouldn't be any of your applesass. But the first copper that sticks his nose in here gets it shot off. Start something."

There was an abrupt silence. A few little boys had gathered and these spread the news. Soon the whole neighborhood of Thirty-ninth street and Indiana avenue was perched on curbstones, up trolley poles, on the nearby "L" structure, on back fences, and, most glorious of all, those who lived in the same building with Miss Martin had a regular little amphitheater on the stairs.

Victory Brings Defeat.

But alas for the Horatio at the bridge party, the first nighters who held the pass at Thermopylae, and June Martin! There was a renewed rumpus in front and this time the horde poured through.

But victory had an ecru taste, Arma akimbo stood Miss Martin, like a Roman senator awaiting the battle ax of the Goth. Skipping about and wondering why the game had ended were five poodle dogs. No men.

"Well," said Miss Martin, "now you're here, April fool!"

THE WAR

UNITED STATES.

Guard troops will be sent abroad as soon as possible; prairie division, including Illinois men, will be among first; decision to hasten movement follows report by Col. House.

ABROAD.

Russians quit peace conference with Germans, saying terms are not acceptable. Claim the Berlin offer is junker policy, which means that invader intends to hold cities. Entente still may have chance to unite nation against Germans. Russians and Roumanians may split as result of Trotsky's demand for apology.

Vienna claims troops abandoned Zenson bridgehead on Dec. 26 unknown to Italians.

ITALIANS HALT PIAVE CROSSING; DISPERSE SHIPS

ROME, Italy, Jan. 2.—Another attempt to cross the Piave river has been defeated by the Italians, the war office announces. Ten vessels loaded with troops of the enemy were dispersed at Intestadura, where the crossing was attempted.

Intestadura is on the west bank of the Piave, ten miles from its mouth. It is just above the region flooded by the Italians to protect Venice and about five miles below the Zenson bridgehead which the Austrians abandoned after having had a foothold there for several weeks on the western bank of the river.

SOLDIERS GUARD MUNITIONS AND PACKERS HERE

A company of infantry of the regular army was brought to Chicago yesterday to guard munition plants and the stockyards district. Fires and explosions, attributed to German plots, in other parts of the country, led to the precaution. Other troops are to follow, it is said.

CROZIER LOSES POWER; CIVILIANS WILL RULE

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—The bulk of the national guard will be hurried to France at once or as soon as it can be shipped, and the Prairie division, including the Illinois regiments now at Houston, will be one of the first three divisions sent forward.

The administration is endeavoring to speed up the dispatch of troops to France, as urgently recommended in Col. E. M. House's report on the achievements of the American war mission, which was made public today.

The Germans, who are greatly strengthened by the collapse of Russia, are certain to attempt another great drive toward Paris in the spring.

Appeal Made by House.

Col. House and his associates on the war mission informed the president that they deem it imperative to rush troops to the western front as quickly as possible. The official recommendations of the House commission are:

"1. That the United States exert all their influence to secure entire unity of effort, military, naval, and economic, between themselves and the countries associated with them in the war.

"2. Inasmuch as the successful termination of the war by the United States and the allies can be greatly hastened by the extension of the United States shipping program, that the government and people of the United States bend every effort towards accomplishing this result by a systematic coordination of resources of men and materials.

"3. That the fighting forces of the United States be dispatched to Europe with the least possible delay incident to training and equipment."

Plan New Regular Division.

The national guard divisions will complete their training in the French training camps vacated by American troops moved to the firing line.

How long the movement of the national guard to France will take depends upon the number of available transports, which the government is endeavoring to increase. It is expected, however, that all the guard troops will be in France by the end of spring, by which time the national army will be moving.

New Regulars Division.

In anticipation of the vacation of Camp Logan at Houston, Tex., by the Illinois national guard division the war department has begun to organize a regular army division to occupy that camp. This will be the Fifth division, with a nucleus of veteran regulars and the remainder recruits to the regular army recently obtained.

The second draft call is to be issued in March, according to present plans. These selectives will be sent to the camps vacated by the national guard, where they will be trained during the spring and summer.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—A complete reorganization of the ordnance department of the army, which will transfer almost complete control of government artillery, rifles, and ammunition purchase and production from military to civilian hands, was announced by Secretary Baker tonight.

Under this reorganization Gen. William Crozier, chief of ordnance, who has been under fire of senate investigators, will become little more than a figurehead. Brig. Gen. Charles Wheeler, who recently displaced Gen. Crozier as active head of the ordnance department, also will be shorn of power.

The immediate effect of the change, it is believed, will be to speed up the purchase and manufacture of artillery, machine guns and rifles to supply the troops at home and abroad.

Power Given McRoberts.

Samuel McRoberts, formerly of Chicago and more recently executive manager of the National City bank of New York, will be placed in charge of the procurement division.

"This procurement division," Secretary Baker's announcement said, "will negotiate all orders and contracts for artillery, small arms, ammunition, and other articles heretofore purchased by the various divisions of the ordnance department."

This will take from Gen. Crozier, Gen. Wheeler, and other officers of the ordnance department the initiative in dealing with munitions men.

May Delay Ministry.

The reorganization of the ordnance department was accepted as a response to the widespread demand for a ministry of munitions. It is understood the new organization will be given an opportunity to straighten out the ordnance tangle before any further steps will be taken to meet the cry for a ministry of munitions.

The ordnance department still will control the inspection and supplies departments, under the reorganization plan. This was one phase of the reorganization which it was predicted might lead to a repetition of the trouble in the shipping board through conflict of military and civilian officials.

Work of Inspection.

This inspection department will have power to reject munitions manufactured on contracts placed by the procurement division. The military officials of the ordnance department also retain control of the distribution of artillery, machine guns, and ammunition.

It was predicted tonight that one of the first steps would be to purchase all available machine guns. Efforts will be undertaken to speed up production of the new Browning machine guns.

The reorganization was announced in this statement:

"Heretofore the business of the ordnance department has been conducted by five separate and more or less independent organizations, under the direction of the chief of ordnance. These divisions will now be consolidated. The chief of ordnance will be assisted by an extensive administrative and advisory staff.

Plans Four Divisions.

"The principal business functions of the department, as distinct from the technical designing and other scientific work with which it is charged, will be carried on by four operating divisions:

"(A) The procurement division will negotiate all orders and contracts for artillery, small arms, ammunition, and other articles heretofore purchased by the various divisions of the ordnance department.

"(B) The production division will have general charge of production. It will follow up, supervise, and stimulate the production of all articles contracted for by the procurement division.

"(C) The inspection division will inspect and accept or reject all munitions of war contracted for by the procurement division.

"(D) The supply division will receive and distribute all ordnance and ordnance stores, operate all storehouses, and have charge of matters pertaining to transportation.

"Experienced business executives will be put in charge of the procurement and production divisions, and the work of those divisions will be intrusted to recently commissioned civilians, supplemented by further acquisition of trained experts and men of proven business ability."

FAMOUS SPANISH PALACE IN RUINS

MADRID, Jan. 2.—Fire broke out in the royal palace at La Granja this morning and before it could be checked it had spread to a nearby church, which with the palace was destroyed. Several houses near the palace also caught fire. Water pipes had frozen and it was impossible to use the fire hydrants.

Government troops were summoned from Segovia to fight the fire. Few of the valuable pictures and art objects in the palace were saved. The loss will aggregate several million dollars.

The royal palace at La Granja was built in 1721-23. It consists of a main building inclosing the court of the original Granja (grange) and of two double wings. The royal apartments on the first floor have been noted for their eighteenth century magnificence.

Of the gardens, King Philip V. is said to have remarked:

"It has cost me three millions and amused me three minutes."

WAR CONTRACTS GO TO SELVES, WITNESS SAYS

Eisenman Admits Practice, but Insists It Is Necessary.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—That millions of dollars' worth of government contracts have been placed with firms whose members are affiliated with the supply committee of the Council of National Defense was admitted today by Charles Eisenman, vice chairman of the committee, testifying in the war department inquiry before the senate committee on military affairs.

Eisenman, declaring he was cognizant of the law prohibiting an agent of the government dealing with any firm in which he was interested, said that no individual member of the supply committee ever participated personally in placing contracts to his own firm. He insisted it was necessary for other members of the committee to act on contracts whenever the firm of another member was involved.

Don't Seek Contracts.

"We let these contracts every day," said Eisenman. "It is not a question of these firms seeking the contracts. It's a question of the government needing the goods and forcing these firms to take contracts whether they wanted to or not."

"Are you interested in any firm that has supply contracts with the government, placed by your committee," Senator McKellar asked.

"I am a stockholder in the Cleveland Worsted Mills company," said Eisenman. "That company had some contracts for melton goods."

Q.—Did you negotiate the contracts? A.—I had nothing whatever to do with them.

Placed by Eddington.

Q.—Who placed the contracts with your firm? A.—Mr. F. R. Eddington, a member of the committee, did that.

Eddington, who was present, testified that the Cleveland Worsted Mills company had two contracts for meltons, aggregating $570,000.

"Did you know of the law forbidding agents of the government participating in deals with firms in which they are interested?"

"Yes," Eisenman said, "I know all about that, and I didn't participate."

"With full knowledge of the law, how did you get around it?"

"Simply by taking no part in it. We do that every day. I hoped that the supply committee could get along without dealing with that firm, but we had to deal with them. At one time the committee wanted the firm to take orders for half a million yards, but all it would take was 200,000 yards."

Goes Down List.

Senator McKellar then went down the list of members of the supply committee and found that the great majority were members of firms which are supplying the government. Eisenman testified that his committee had made over 4,500 contracts involving over $800,000,000. He was unable to tell what percentage of this amount went to firms who had representatives on the committee.

"Will you furnish the information to the committee by tomorrow?" asked Senator McKellar.

"That would be impossible; but I will turn over all our contracts to the committee."

"But we want the information," insisted Senator McKellar, "and it is in your interest to give it to us."

He's Not Afraid.

"O, I'm not at all afraid about myself," Eisenman emphatically replied. "You can't go to me as hard as you like."

"Do you think it is good policy for the government to have men on this committee who are interested in the firms supplying the materials for the war?" Senator Chamberlain asked.

"Yes, I think it is the best policy," Eisenman said. "We want men on this committee who have proved successful in their line and who will be useful. This is a big job and it takes big men to do it.

"We foisted contracts on these companies and no member of the committee ever had anything personally to do with a contract awarded to his firm. We have control over the total loom capacity of the United States in all cotton ducks, for instance, and we allotted orders to firms whether they wanted the contracts or not. They might have been able to get 30 per cent more from private orders than from the government. It isn't what the firms wanted to do. It is what the government demands of them."

Scrutinize All Contracts.

Members of the committee intimated strongly that they would scrutinize all these contracts with a view to determining whether the law had been violated directly, indicating it to be their opinion that the spirit of the law has been subjected to wholesale evasion, at least.

Eisenman took direct issue with Quartermaster General Sharpe in declaring that delays in clothing the new American army were due to late delivery of cloth, manufacture for which the committee on supplies was responsible. He insisted that the committee was ahead on cloth deliveries and that the quartermaster's department was behind on its manufacturing contracts. He also declared that the quartermaster's department erred glaringly in routing goods to the various cantonments, and cited instances where eight or nine blankets per man were sent to some camps, whereas others were without any. He also declared that the government called out more men than the facilities of the country could clothe in so short a period of time.

Had the Facilities.

"You say the United States had the facilities between May and September to give clothing for a million and three hundred thousand men?" asked Senator Hitchcock.

"If we had known in May that we would be compelled to equip a certain number of men, regardless of price or value, or kinds of goods, we could have done that absolutely," Eisenman replied.

"When did you learn you had to equip a million, three hundred thousand men?"

"We were never informed as to the number of men we were supposed to equip. We were informed as to how much material we should get."

Kaplan on Stand.

Samuel M. Kaplan, chairman of the subcommittee on rags and woolen substitutes, explained to the committee all about the organization, of the Base Sorting company, which had a contract with the government to sort wool clippings from various government contractors at the rate of 6 cents per pound, a contract subsequently canceled. There were frequent clashes, and at one time Senator Weeks said Kaplan was about as impudent a man "as he had ever seen." Kaplan suggested the organization of the company, he said, in order to save the government money, and it was organized by his brother, Ira I. Kaplan, and two of his competitors in business, Edward Stone, and Nathan Myers.

"They are three of the highest type of men in the United States, if I do say so about my own brother," Kaplan said. "They were not moonshiners or burglars. They are as patriotic as any men in the country.

Called to Washington.

"I was called to Washington by Mr. Eisenman, and I saw that the wool clippings, which actually belonged to the government, were being collected by the contractors and sold to the government. That was wrong.

"So I conceived the idea of organizing a sorting company. We knew nothing about what this business would be worth, so I suggested a tentative price of 6 cents a pounds, the understanding being that in no case was the company to get more than half a cent a pound profit."

It developed that when the contract was drawn last August the half cent provision was not specified.

Neither Eisenman nor Kaplan could explain why the Base Sorting company was organized with dummy directors.

WHAT HOUSE COMMISSION DID DURING TRIP TO EUROPE; WON CO-OPERATION WITH ENTENTE POWERS IN MANY WAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 2.—The state department today made public the following statement in regard to the publication of the House commission's recommendation for the speeding up of the United States war preparations and the early dispatch of more troops to France:

"A review of the report filed with the department of state by Col. House, the head of the special war mission which visited Great Britain and France in November, shows that it succeeded in its purpose of reaching a definite working plan for the prosecution of the war through cooperation of the governments represented at the conferences held at Paris in the various fields of activity and through marshaling the resources of the nations at war with the central powers and coördinating their uses under a common authority, thus avoiding the waste and uncertainties that arise from independent action.

Reports Results Reached.

"The result of the conferences, as shown in the report, are most gratifying to this government, first, because they indicate that the conferees were inspired by the desire to be mutually helpful, and, second, because the agreements which were reached, when in full operation, will greatly increase the effectiveness of the efforts now being put forth by the United States and the allies in the conflict against Germany and Austria-Hungary."

The "summary of results accomplished" is divided under diplomatic, naval, military, finance, shipping, war trade, war industries, and food. It makes about 2,000 words. The summary follows:

NAVAL

"1. The formation of an interallied naval council to coördinate the operation of the naval forces of the United States and its associates in the war so that these forces may in the future be operated as one in the prosecution of the war on the sea and in conjunction with the land forces.

"2. An agreement between the British admiralty and the navy department putting into effect certain plans relating to the prosecution of the naval war against the submarines.

"3. The formation of a definite plan for the more active utilization of American naval forces in conjunction with those of nations engaged in the war against the central powers.

"4. Agreement with the British admiralty making it possible for American naval officers to keep fully informed of the operations and policy of the British admiralty, so that perfect coöperation between the navy department and that body is assured.

"5. Reorganization of American naval forces at French ports.

MILITARY

"1. After conferences extending over approximately thirty days with the chiefs of staff, members of the general staffs, and commanders in chief of the allied armies on the western front, as well as with the highest civil officials of the respective governments, the extent of the military effort to be aimed at by the United States was clearly determined.

"2. With this determination in mind, negotiations were carried on looking to the pooling of resources for the mutual advantage of all the countries engaged in the war against Germany. The contribution of the United States to this pooling arrangement was agreed upon. The contributions likewise of the countries associated with the United States were determined. This pooling arrangement guaranteed that full equipment of every kind would be available to all American troops sent to Europe during the year 1918.

"3. Unqualified support to the resolution adopted by the interallied conference looking to the creation of an allied advisory board charged with the duty of advising the shipping authorities of each nation concerning the allocation of tonnage, so as to permit the American military effort to be realized.

"4. Full survey made of problem of debarkation in Europe of American military forces and transportation of such forces and supplies to the bases of military operation.

"5. Arrangements made for the fullest coöperation between the United States, Great Britain, and France in the production of military instruments and supplies of all kinds.

"6. Plans made for the proper organization under naval and military control of ports of debarkation of troops and discharge of cargoes, looking to the most economical utilization of tonnage.

"7. Participation in military deliberations of supreme war council as a step towards efficient and centralized unity of control of military operations.

DIPLOMATIC

"1. Full and frank discussion between Col. House, as special representative of the government of the United States, and the heads of the British, French, and Italian governments with regard to the war policy of the United States and her associates in the war.

"2. Participation by the members of the mission in a meeting of the British war cabinet, at which conference a general and useful discussion was had concerning the needs of the allies and the extent of the assistance to be expected from the United States.

"3. Participation by the United States in an interallied war conference held in Paris on Nov. 29. At this conference all preliminary speeches were dispensed with, and within half an hour after the conference had been called to order by M. Clémenceau it had split into committees for work.

"4. Participation by the United States in a meeting of the supreme war council held at Versailles Dec. 1. Representatives of England, France, Italy, and the United States there met as a first step towards securing unity of control of the armies on the western front. This meeting, the first of its kind, assures for the future unity of support on the part of the United States and the allies.

"5. First steps taken in the establishment of a more perfect liaison between the commanding generals of the United States and the allies.

FINANCE

"1. Full detailed conferences with the financial representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Greece, Roumania, and Russia for the purpose of ascertaining the extent of the financial effort necessary on the part of the United States in order properly to coöperate with these governments in making financial arrangements for the prosecution of the war against the central powers.

"2. Conferences with the representatives of the above mentioned countries for the purpose of perfecting the organization of an interallied council which is a priority board, whose duty it should be to consider the relative importance and urgency of the financial demands to be made by the concerted effort of the countries waging war against the central powers.

"3. Arrangements begun for the proper financing of purchases by the countries at war with Germany of supplies from neutral countries.

"4. Participation in the financial discussions of the interallied conference.

SHIPPING

"1. Full and detailed reports were secured showing total loss of tonnage due to war risks and marine risks from Aug. 1, 1914, to Sept. 30, 1917.

"2. The estimated output of new tonnage by the allies during the year 1918 was ascertained.

"3. The proper employment of existing tonnage, so that the maximum utilization of such tonnage could be affected, was provided for in a resolution adopted by the interallied conference.

"The allies, considering that the means of maritime transport at their disposal, as well as the provisions which they dispose of, should be utilized in common for the pursuit of the war, have decided to create an interallied organization for the purpose of coördinating their action to this effect and of establishing a common program, constantly kept up to date, enabling them, by the maximum utilization of their resources, to restrict their importations with a view of liberating the greatest amount of tonnage possible for the transportation of American troops.'

"4. The whole question of the employment of neutral tonnage in line with the proposals made by neutral countries with respect to this tonnage was exhaustively discussed and plans looking to the favorable result of tonnage negotiations with neutral countries were substantially agreed upon.

"5. A survey was completed of the ports of debarkation of American troops and supplies, and plans were made looking to the more expeditious discharge of troops and cargoes, so as to permit the return of vessels to their home ports with the least possible delay.

WAR INDUSTRIES

"1. A detailed study was made of the organization of the British ministry of munitions and the supply departments of the British admiralty and the British war office, and a complete analysis of the facts and figures in possession of these department of the British government was made. The report embodying the results of the investigations contains a full statement of the methods in vogue in England for supplying the army and navy with munitions and other materials, and also statistics relating to the mutual cooperation necessary to be effected for the proper supplying of the armed forces of the countries waging war on the central powers.

"2. A survey was made of the system in practice in Great Britain relating to the letting of government contracts and the organization of industries throughout Great Britain.

"3. Attendance at the interallied conference in Paris and in particular at the meetings of the representatives of the several allied nations having to do with munitions questions.

"4. Full conferences with representatives of the United States ordnance department in France and representatives of British and French munitions departments stationed there, resulting in the embodying of conclusions in memoranda submitted to the war department.

WAR TRADE

"1. Full and detailed conferences were held with the British, French, and Italian representatives upon blockade matters and a complete understanding was obtained of the principles under which these countries were proceeding.

"2. A mass of information was obtained with reference to rationing requirements of Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Holland.

"3. An agreement between the war trade board and the Swiss society surveillance was agreed to and executed by the Swiss delegates and Mr. McCormick, the chairman of the war trade board.

"4. Arrangements were made for the participation of the United States in the deliberations of the permanent international commission on contingents sitting in Paris and on the interallied commission of Berne, Switzerland.

"5. Tentative plans, subject to the approval of the war trade were made for the appointment of representatives and staffs of the war trade board in London and Paris.

FOOD

"1. A comprehensive and accurate estimate was obtained of the food in the possession of the allied nations and of the amounts that must be supplied by North America during the year ending Oct. 1, 1918. Cabled information had not been of a satisfactory nature and personal contact with the statistical boards and food administrations of the countries concerned was necessary in order that the necessary data could be made available.

"2. The curve of shipments of foodstuffs required from North America for the United Kingdom, France, and Italy was fixed for the year ending 1918. It is believed that the program worked out in the conference with the several interallied executives dealing with supplies of foodstuffs will grant greater facilities for the distribution of foodstuffs at a lower cost in terms of tonnage and transportation.

"3. In order to permit the United States to visualize the problem of food control in North America plans were worked out whereby the governments of Great Britain, France, and Italy agreed to put into effect a legalized and compulsory control of foodstuffs in these countries.

"4. The creation by the interallied conference in Paris of an international scientific committee on alimentation to consist of two representatives each of the United States, Great Britain, France, and Italy. This committee to be in continuous session in Europe for the purpose of studying the alimentation of the allies. This committee to stand in an advisory capacity to the food administrations of the aforenamed countries.

"5. Dr. Taylor, the representative of the food administration on the mission, represented the United States department of agriculture in a conference held in Paris to consider the problems of food production in the allied countries during the year 1918. At this conference an interallied agricultural committee was established to consist of one delegate each from the United States, Great Britain, France, and Italy to sit continuously in Europe and to act in an advisory capacity to the governments named."

BULLARD GIVEN SIBERT'S POST AS PERSHING AID

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Two major generals were relieved of command of divisions in France today in the first army shakeup of the war.

Maj. Gen. William L. Sibert, second in rank to Gen. Pershing, was relieved of command of the first regular army division sent to France. He was given command of the southeastern department, with headquarters at Charleston, S. C. Maj. Gen. R. L. Bullard succeeds Maj. Gen. Sibert.

Maj. Gen. William A. Mann, commanding the "Rainbow" division, the first national guard troops sent to France, was assigned to command the eastern department at Governor's island.

Causes Much Surprise.

The recall of Gen. Mann had been forecast, but the "shelving" of Gen. Sibert caused the greatest surprise. The official explanation was that Gen. Pershing recommended Gen. Sibert's return. The unofficial view was that Gen. Sibert's recall was due to jealousy felt by line officers toward the engineer corps, one officer of which, Gen. Biddle, was recently made assistant chief of staff, and another engineer, Gen. Goethals, was placed in active charge of the quartermaster's corps, succeeding Gen. Sharpe.

Gen. Mann will succeed Maj. Gen. Ell Hohle in command of the eastern department at New York. His recall was due to physical disability. He was unable to stand the strain of active service at the French front.

Maj. Gen. Bullard, named to succeed Gen. Sibert, before the war was colonel of the Twenty-sixth infantry. Maj. Gen. Charles T. Menoher, who was a lieutenant colonel of field artillery before the war, succeeds Gen. Mann in command of the "Rainbow" division.

Other Shifts Given.

Several other shifts of general officers were announced today. Maj. Gen. Charles H. Muir succeeds Gen. Clements in command of the Pennsylvania national guard division at Augusta. Clements, one of the two national guard major generals, was discharged on account of physical disability. Maj. Gen. George H. Cameron was given command of the Fourth regular army division at Charlotte, N. C., and Maj. Gen. George W. Reed was given command of the new cavalry division at El Paso, Tex.

Brig. Gen. William G. Haan was relieved of command of the Fifty-seventh field artillery brigade and assigned to command the Thirty-second division at Camp MacArthur, Waco, Tex.; Brig. Gen. Edward F. McGlachin succeeds Gen. Haan. Maj. Gen. James Parker, who formerly commanded the Thirty-second division, was transferred to command of the Eighty-fifth division at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich.

Baker Names Three Chicagoans Members of Military Council to Provide Entertainment for Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Three Chicagoans—Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, Mrs. Howard Spaulding and W. R. Dawes—were named by Secretary Baker today as members of the military entertainment council which will have charge of all entertainment features in the army cantonments and camps, under the commission on training camp activities.

Three entertainment organizations will be consolidated, the Y. M. C. A. auditoriums, the Chautauqua tents, and the camp theaters which were organized by Marc Klaw. The Knights of Columbus will also permit the use of their halls for these entertainments.

One work of the council will be to arrange for the financing of the sixteen Liberty theaters, built by the government, with seating accommodations for 2,000 each, and the Liberty auditoriums and Liberty tents.

Credit for the consolidation plan is given by Secretary Baker to Harry P. Harrison of Chicago, a Chautauqua manager, who will be executive chairman under the entertainment council.

NAVAL PATROLS GUARD VIRGINIA TOWN FROM FIRES

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 2.—While department of justice agents and naval patrols continued today to round up suspicious persons on this side of the Elizabeth river as the result of yesterday's mysterious fires in Norfolk's business district, the city of Portsmouth, across the river, practically was placed under control of the naval authorities as a precautionary measure.

Norfolk authorities today seemed less inclined to attribute yesterday's fires to an enemy plot to destroy the city in an attempt to cripple war activities here, but federal agents and the naval patrols did not relax their vigilance. A score of persons unable to give satisfactory accounts of themselves were arrested. Many were released, but others were held for further examination.

U. of C. Professors Back from Work as War Aids

University of Chicago professors who have been away on war service returned to Chicago yesterday and will reënter school work in the university. Wells of the department of pathology has been serving with the Red Cross in Roumania, and Prof. Robert Herrick, who has been absent for three years in France and other allied countries, has returned to teach contemporary English literature.

many's enemies might assist Ukraine or other disaffected sections in opposition to the central powers.

The peace conference broke up with Russian delegates taunting the German conferees on the demands of junkerdom, according to returning Bolshevik members.

More German Terms.

Additional terms which the Germans proposed at the conference have become known. One provides that treaties and agreements in force before the war should become effective "if not directly in conflict with changes resulting from the war."

It further is provided that there shall be no economic warfare after the war and that neither nation shall discriminate against the subjects, merchant ships, or goods of the other. Each nation would grant to the other, for twenty years at least, the rights of the most favored nation in questions of commerce and navigation.

The Germans ask that the mouth of the Danube be intrusted to a commission, with a membership from the countries bordering on the Danube and the Black sea. Above Braila the administration was to be in the hands of ten bordering countries.

The contracting parties were not to demand payment for war expenditures nor for damages, but each was to pay damage done within its own limits by acts against international law with regard to the subjects of other parties, the amount to be fixed by neutrals.

May Break with Roumania.

The Fourth Roumanian army yesterday occupied the Bessarabian town of Loova and several other villages.

The semi-official news agency today made public a communication from Trotzky asserting that the Roumanian authorities ordered the Bolshevik committee visiting that country arrested and tried and declaring that they would have been shot except for intervention by the Cossacks.

The statement says that Trotzky, in a protest to the Roumanian minister, has demanded the punishment of those responsible and declared that the workmen's and soldiers' deputies would not shrink from using the harshest methods against Roumanian counter revolutionary conspirators, the accomplices of Gen. Kaledines, Lieut. Gen. Stcherbatcheff, commander of the Russian forces in Roumania, and the Rada, and also would not respect the positions occupied by the conspirators of the Roumanian hierachy.

The Roumanian legation, in its reply, which Trotzky considered unsatisfactory, said the legation was without information concerning the events at Loovo. It added that recently there had been conflicts between Russian troops on Roumanian territory, which Roumania deply regretted. Further, the reply said, entire Russian divisions, without waiting methodical demobilization, were pillaging and devastating and even burning villages, occasioning armed collisions and endangering the lives of the Roumanian population. The reply continued:

"In the interest of the Russian troops themselves, who are threatened with famine, and in the interest of the Roumanian population, the Roumanian government was obliged to intervene in order to avert a catastrophe."

The reply referred to Roumanian obligations to furnish grain for the Russian army from Roumania's scant supplies, compelling Roumania to obtain stores from the Ukraine and the Caucasus.

German Socialists Protest.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Amsterdam says:

"Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, the German foreign secretary, returned to Brest-Litovsk yesterday after a consultation with Emperor William.

"Dr. von Kuehlmann while in Berlin also had a conference with the Socialist leaders, Hugo Haase, Philipp Scheidemann, and Frederich Ebert, who expressed the dissatisfaction of the Socialists over his intention indirectly to annex Russian territory now occupied by the Germans."

KAISER'S HELL BEATS SATAN'S, SUNDAY SHOUTS

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Billy Sunday pulled off his coat literally and metaphorically last night at the Medinah temple and made a crowd howl with delight by his sizzling patriotism.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the National Security league, which invited the evangelist to come to Chicago from his home in Winona Lake, Wis., where he is resting after his meeting which closed at Atlanta Dec. 23. Nearly 5,000 persons were present.

Mr. Sunday said he had both hands up for universal military training for the United States, denounced pacifists as black hearted traitors who ought to be made to face a firing squad, praised Uncle Sam's army as the best army in morals, brains, and physique ever gathered, and declared the German kaiser and Von Hindenburg were the makers of more hell than will ever be found in the real hell hereafter.

Resolutions Are Adopted.

Following the address, the audience with a lusty volume of ayes adopted as the sentiment of the meeting a message sent to Gov. Lowden, Senator L. Y. Sherman, and other prominent men, which declared in favor of the following policy:

"To clear away red tape and increase efficiency. Politics to be brushed aside, and all energies to be devoted to winning the war. Wherever weaklings are found, they should be replaced by strong men possessed of courage, demonstrated ability, and the public's confidence, and to them power to act must be given. Our sole purpose for 1918 must be the winning of the war. Treason and sedition must be uncovered and punished by death. Democrats and Republicans must merge in an all-American war policy until victory is achieved."

A second resolution, also adopted unanimously, declared in favor of universal military training, the making of another West Point, and the calling of the attention of the government to Fort Sheridan as the proper place for such an institution.

Messages from Officials.

Gov. Lowden in his telegram said: "The speaker of the evening, in all of his battles against the enemies of righteousness, never encountered one more insidious or more menacing than the idea for which the central empires stand today."

Senator Sherman declared in his message: "Red tape must be cut, and lost time and unpreparedness overcome by active efforts now and hereafter."

Text from Wilson.

H. H. Merrick read the telegrams, Edgar A. Bancroft was chairman of the meeting, the Rev. J. S. Ladd Thomas prayed, Bishop Thomas Nicholson pronounced the benediction, and Homer Rodeheaver, Billy Sunday's singing partner in his tabernacle meetings, led the singing. Billy Sunday did the rest.

"I have a text, like any other preacher," said the pugnacious evangelist. "It was given to me by Woodrow Wilson: 'For us there is but one choice, and we have made it.'

"It's a whale of a job we've got, but we are not pikers, excess baggage, nor false alarms, and, by the eternal God, we will not sheath the sword until that gang are on their knees with their tongues hanging out.

After Hot Dog Bunch.

"When we declared war it was only the kickoff. We've got to play the game yet. We will not sing the song, 'We're Coming, Father Abraham, Three Hundred Thousand Strong,' but we will sing, 'We Are Coming, Father Woodrow, Ten Millions Strong,' and when we get after Kaiser Bill and Von Hindenburg and the rest of that hot dog bunch they will know Gen. Sherman was right.

"No man can serve God and be disloyal to his country. Religion and patriotism are twins. Down with your I. W. W. calamity howlers! Down with your Socialists who are not true to the flag! Down with your pacifists, which is only another name for treason!

"To spoil a rat hole, pour in the light. Let the men who do not have a drop of American blood in their veins nor American hair on their heads beat it back across the sea where they were kenneled. They have become carbuncles on the body politic. When they go I will climb on the statue of Liberty in New York harbor and sing, 'Praise God, from Whom All Blessings Flow'!

Skin Militarism Snake.

"Of course we've got knockers and croakers, but God has no use for knockers of their country. No army ever conquered with a flag at half mast. Be a booster rooster. Get the scale off that slimy serpent of militarism.

"Sympathy? Gee whiz! Sympathy won't win this war, only fighting will. A man in Los Angeles asked me 'Why did we declare war?' You big chump, I told him, we passed that state long ago, we have declared war.

"You can't win this war without money any more than you can play ball without a ball. Shot and shell can put some things over, prayer can't, but together they will make hell tremble.

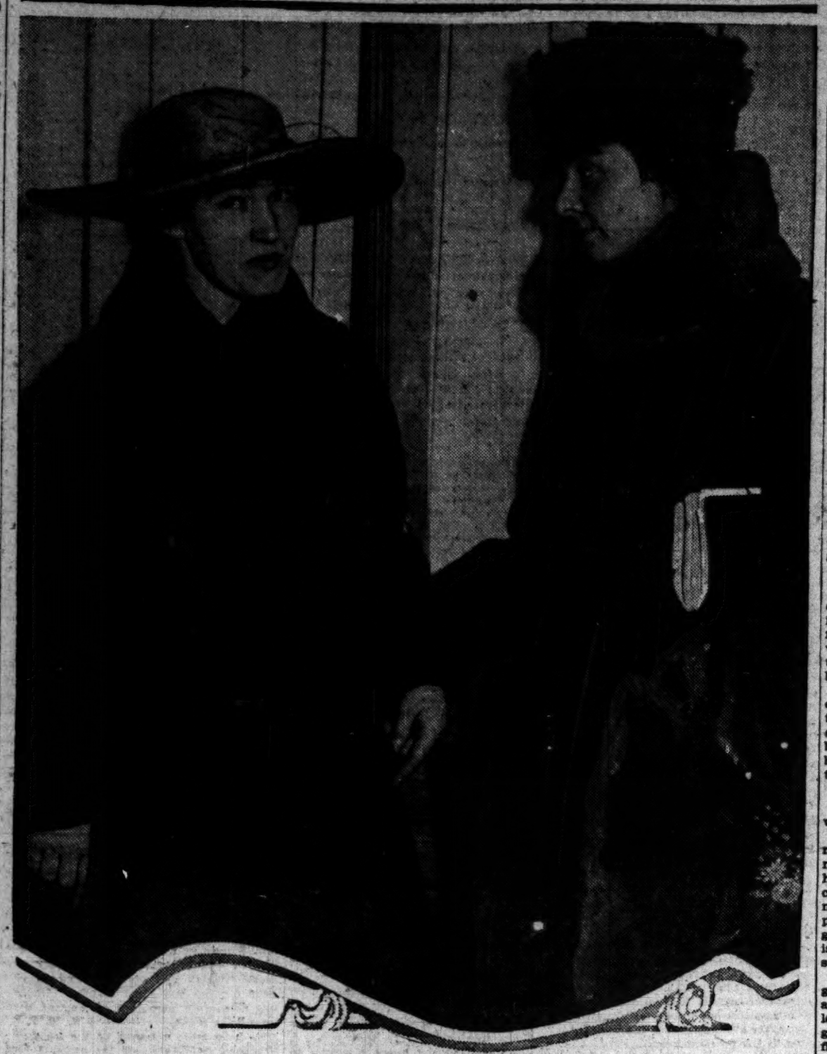

Fight or Shut Up.

"We've got to win this war by saving and by more people doing their own work so as to release more men for fighting. It is a disgrace that Gen. Pershing had to buy 200,000 uniforms in England for our soldiers—mind you, for our soldiers.

"A pacifist is a Judas Iscariot. If it hadn't been for the English fleet and the French army Germany would have torn up our Monroe doctrine like a scrap of paper. This talk of not fighting the German people is all bunk. For fifty years they have had this doctrine of might makes right pumped into them. We propose to dig a grave so deep for the Hohenzollerns they will not even hear Gabriel's trumpet."

"THROW HIM OUT!"

Forty American Authors Protest to Senate Against Continued Membership of La Follette.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Forty American authors have written to the United States senate protesting against the continued membership in that body of Senator La Follette. A petition to Vice President Marshall accompanies the letters. Extracts from some of the letters follow:

Gelett Burgess—By his pernicious example he has encouraged others, openly hostile and dangerous, to persist in the attempt to nullify our national effort.

Rupert Hughes—La Follette not only rocks the boat, but he denounces the oarsmen, he slanders the bo'sn, he bores holes in the bottom of the boat. And the storm is at its height.

Augustus Thomas—In a somewhat similar situation raised by Vallandigham's opposition to President Lincoln's war policies, Mr. Lincoln wrote, "Must I shoot a poor boy who deserts from the army, and must I not touch a hair of the head of the wily agitator who persuaded him to desert?"

Emerson Hough—He ought to be thrown out so that we could go about our business of winning the war.

Harrison Rhodes—He wasted time and should be got rid of.

Wallace Irwin—If God will save us from the fate of a misguided Russia, coaxed to ruin by Potsdam wolves in pacifist clothing, we must begin now by silencing our sweet voiced enemies at home.

Meredith Nicholson—The toleration in our highest lawmaking body of a man who speaks the Berlin language is an insult to every American soldier and sailor and to every loyal American citizen at home.

Denial Half Mollifies Indignant Village Chief

Chief of Police Roy C. Goss of River Forest, who filed suit for damages against Allen Goodison and Charles J. Michaelson because of remarks attributed to them concerning his ability as chief of police, will withdraw the suit against Michaelson, according to a statement made by his attorney, Stephen Lewis, last night.

"I wrote letters to both men," said Lewis, "asking them if they had made the slanderous remarks. Michaelson wrote he would see me, but Goodison did not answer. Last night Michaelson appeared at my home and denied the charges, and I decided to withdraw the damage suit."

Michaelson verified Lewis' statement, but declined to discuss the affair further. The suit against Goodison is pending.

If the Pie Must Go Then Let Tart Take Its Place

Boston, Mass., Jan. 2.—The sacrifice of the famous New England pie as a war measure was urged by the Massachusetts woman's committee of the Council of National Defense today.

"Eat tarts instead of pies—it will save wheat," the committee recommends.

DINNER IS SOON TO BE A WHALE OF A MEAL HERE

Canned Monster to Be Result of the Food Show.

We shall soon all be asking this of the housewife as we sit at her dinner table, after the lessons of the patriotic food show have been absorbed by the visitors to the show, which will open on Saturday at the Coliseum. For whale meat (which comes in cans when bought in this part of the country) is highly recommended by domestic science experts as an edible dish when properly cooked and—the important thing at this time—it is a good meat substitute.

Here's the recipe: Dice one cup of whale meat and boil for fifteen minutes. Add one cup of parboiled and diced carrots. Make a sauce of the stock from the meat and carrots, thickening it with rye flour. Place all this in a greased baking dish and cover with crust of hot mashed potatoes.

Warns of Food Cards.

A serious challenge was made yesterday afternoon to the efficacy of the voluntary system of food conservation in this country as represented by the food pledge cards that have been signed in large numbers by housewives and others interested in the preparation of food. The challenge came after a presentation of the objects of the food administration by John H. Cover, who arrived from Hoover's office in Washington, and who spoke informally before those in the committee room of the food show.

"The card system of dealing out food seems to be inevitable in this country unless the demonstrations to be given in the food show are followed up with conscientious practice throughout the country," declared Louis M. Stumer, chariman of the committee. "The Patriotic Food show is the last effort to accomplish the right substitution of food for that which we can send abroad, and failure to take the hint may result in the card system in America."

CLERK ARRESTED FOR $1,000 "PAD" IN CITY PAY ROLL

Charles J. Monahan, a city hall clerk, needed more money than his salary provided. He figured he might as well put a few extra men on the payroll and collect their salaries.

His scheme might have been a good one, but his superiors, principally Commissioner of Public Works Bennett, knew something of the affair. Morahan was arrested last night. He is accused of trying to defraud the city out of approximately $1,000 by padding payrolls in the city engineer's office.

It was asserted that Morahan signed the names of employes who did not exist to payrolls, and collected salaries.

PETAIN TO POILUS

French Army Commander, in New Year's Order, Tells of Power of U. S. in War and of His Confidence of Victory.

PARIS, Tuesday, Jan. 2.—In a New Year's order of the day, Gen. Petain, French commander in chief, says to his troops:

"Officers, subalterns, soldiers, 1918 is here. The struggle must continue. The fate of France requires it. Be patient and persistent.

"In the attack, as in the defense, you have shown your worth. Each time you have attacked the enemy has retired. Each time he has attempted to break through you have stopped him. It will be the same tomorrow.

"The default of the Russians has not shaken your faith. I take this occasion to assure you that the cooperation of the United States is becoming more powerful every day. You are firmly determined to fight as long as necessary to assure peace for your children, because you know that if those who are most impatient call for peace, those who are most persistent fix the conditions of peace.

"I salute your flags, and in addressing to you my most affectionate wishes for 1918 I express to you once again my pride in commanding you and my full confidence in the future."

BIG AIR FLEET TO FIGHT U. S.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—As showing that the pretended German disregard for the entry of the United States into the war is feigned, the Reuter correspondent at British headquarters quotes an official German army order as follows:

"The recent entry of America into the war compels our higher command to form a considerable number of new aircraft units."

The order proceeds to urge the officers to promote the utmost numbers of transfers of officers to the flying corps for necessary training.

Next War Bond Issue to Be Called Third Liberty Loan

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—The next national loan will be designated officially as the Third Liberty Loan, not the victory loan, freedom loan, or peace loan, as had been suggested. This was made known today after receipt of hundreds of suggested names from persons all over the country in response to a request for submission of ideas.

The loan sale will begin some time after Feb. 1. The amount and the interest rate have not yet been decided.

WAR FLOUR IN; NOT SO WHITE BUT NUTRITIOUS

Use to Save 16,000,000 Bushels of Wheat a Year.

Flour from which the war bread of the United States is to be made began arriving in Chicago yesterday. This flour is made entirely of wheat of uniform quality at all mills which have had to make changes in their equipment in order to comply with the new rulings of the United States food administration.

The new war bread, it is claimed, will be more nutritious than the familiar loaf, but will not be quite so white. The method of milling which has been adopted will bring about a saving of 16,000,000 bushels of wheat during the next crop year, according to B. A. Eckhart of the food administration, and will also result in a saving of nearly 2,500,000 barrels of flour, which will go to the allies of the United States.

Order Was Withheld.

The order to millers to make the change to the new kind of flour went into effect Dec. 26, but was withheld from publication as it was feared there would be a stampede on the part of the public to buy the old kind of flour before the new was on the market.

The new flour will be of two kinds, one being called "100 per cent" and the other "95 per cent." Millers will continue to put out their advertised brands, but each sack or barrel will be marked "made under food administration regulations."

Explains New Terms.

Mr. Eckhart was asked to explain what was meant by 100 per cent flour.

"Under this ruling we cannot use more than 264 pounds of wheat in making a barrel of flour," said Mr. Eckhart. "This will mean what millers call a 74 per cent extraction. Formerly the mills graded their flour into patent, clear, second clear, and low grade. The low grade contained what is technically known as 'red dog' and second clear.

"We are now to make only two grades. The 95 per cent is patent flour and 5 per cent is made up of clear and low grade. When the two are run together the 100 per cent is made. The flour formerly known as first and second clear now goes into the finished product.

"What the trade calls 'red dog' is the lowest grade of flour. It contains bran and middlings fined down so that it is still flour. Some of the coarser, darker portion of red dog goes into feed.

"Hereafter we must use less wheat in making a barrel of flour. Formerly it was customary to discard many of the things obtained in milling into feed for cattle. Certain of the darker ingredients went into enriching feed, but these things are wholesome and fit for human food. We will use more of the flour near the outer shell of the kernel of wheat. The 5 per cent flour is the substance near the bran. In the 95 per cent flour there is not much of this dark substance. There will be little difference between the bread making qualities of the new and the old flours."

Gets Better Flour.

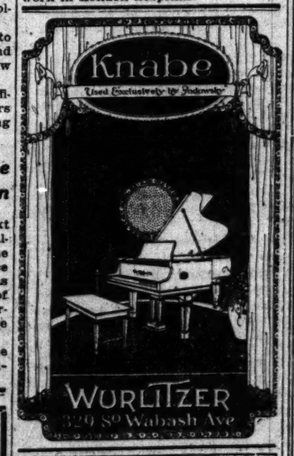

Frank B. Rice, vice president and general manager of the Star and Crescent mills, said:

"The public in the United States has always demanded flour of the purest whiteness. The rejected, darker flours have been purchased eagerly by foreign nations as they were cheaper and held to be more nutritious. Hereafter we are to have the benefit of these ourselves."

HAZEL MARTYN, EX-CHICAGO GIRL, IS LADY LAVERY

By her husband's elevation to knighthood in England, Hazel Martyn, a former Chicago girl, is now Lady Lavery. In her early girlhood she was a resident here and, becoming interested in art, she moved to Paris, where after studying etching for some time she started a little workshop.

Miss Martyn in 1903 married Dr. Edward Trudeau II., son of the tuberculosis specialist, who died within less than a year after their marriage. A few years later she married John Lavery, who is a noted painter and member of the London Academy. They moved to London and have maintained picturesque quarters in Mayfair. Until the war began the Laverys were noted for their unusual social activities. Since the fall of 1914 Mrs. Lavery has spent nearly all of her time in work in London hospitals.

ROOSEVELTS IN THICK OF IT ON FIRING LINE

Maj. Theodore and Capt. Archie Win Their Spurs.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Jan. 2.—A young American officer who was the first to go out of the trenches with a working party was telling how things were up in that quiet little sector.

"It was dark," he said, "and there was hardly a sound all along the line except down to the right of our line, where a machine gun was spitting every few minutes and they were firing rifles and carrying on generally. 'What's that down there?' I asked one of my men. 'O, that's Maj. Roosevelt's battalion,' he said.

Wins His Way.

"Maj. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. is one of the picturesque figures of the American army in France. He had something of a row to hoe, for his appointment to command a battalion which had a couple of captains much his senior created comment.

"But young Roosevelt has lived all that down. His men like him and his fellow officers like him. In the same battalion is Capt. Archie Roosevelt, and Col. Roosevelt has the satisfaction that when the first group of Americans went into the trenches two of them were Roosevelts.

He Demands Revenge.

"When the Germans jumped the American line in a raid and took prisoners it was Maj. Roosevelt who sought revenge. His battalion was not in the line at the time, but he went to the French major general and Gen. Pershing and gained permission to try an ambuscade in reprisal. He selected 150 men from his battalion and trained them carefully back of the lines in an area made to represent actual conditions of the field in which they would operate.

"Then one dark night he led them out into No Man's Land and they waited for the Germans to come out of their trenches at their usual point of departure, but for once the German system fell down. No Germans came."

YAQUI INDIANS MURDER THIRTY; AMERICANS HURT

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 2.—Reports of the attack early today by Yaqui Indians on a Southern Pacific de Mexico passenger train at Lencho, near Empalme, received here tonight, place the number of killed at thirty and the wounded at the same figure. A list of the dead is being compiled but probably will not be available tonight.

Two Americans on the train, said to be the only foreigners on the train, are accounted for among the wounded. They are H. G. Poe, a traveling salesman of Los Angeles, and a Mr. Snovel, a division traveling accountant of the Southern Pacific de Mexico, with headquarters at Mazatlan. Snovel was thought to be fatally wounded.

In addition to the dead and wounded the Yaquis are said by tonight's reports to have made prisoner about thirty passengers, mostly young men.

Bring Back Dead and Wounded.

Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 2.—It is reported here that a relief train sent from Guaymas to Empalme, the scene of a Yaqui raid against a Southern Pacific de Mexico train early today, brought back a load of dead and wounded who are in hospitals at Guaymas. It was said a list of the victims would be completed early tomorrow. The number was not stated.

GERMAN THEATER HAULS IN ITS SIGN FOR GOOD AND ALL

Bush Temple theater is minus its German signs for good. "Das Dreimaederlhaus," which on New Year's day stood out in flaming letters, has vanished. Manager Conrad Seidemann has even gone so far as to order his ads out of the English papers.

"I will not insult the American people if that's the way they feel about it," Herr Seidemann said last night.

And Earl A. Stevenson, who started the crusade against the German signs by knocking the Bush temple one down, will have this satisfaction when he faces the judge—that no matter what the court does, he will no longer be aggravated by "Das Dreimaederlhaus."

The sentiment of Bush temple will remain the same, however. Mr. Seidemann said he could obtain sufficient publicity for his purposes in papers of the German tongue.

"'Das Dreimaederlhaus' is like Shakespeare," he said. "It has nothing to do with the war. Why should it be any worse to produce it here than it is to play Shakespeare in Berlin?"

MARIE CORELLI CORRALS SUGAR; PAYS BIG FINE

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Marie Corelli, novelist, and Lady Mabel Gore Langton, sister of Earl Temple, were among today's victims of the food controller's regulations against hoarding food, the former being fined $250 and $100 costs, while Lady Langton was fined $400.

Miss Corelli was charged with having purchased excessive quantities of sugar. In her defense she said the sugar was to be used in making jam.

M'ADOO TO GIVE CHICAGO COAL PRIORITY OF WAY

Raymond Durham, chairman of the Cook county committee of the fuel administration, yesterday asked Director General of Railroads McAdoo and Fuel Administrator Garfield to facilitate coal movements into Chicago. Mr. Durham told Washington officials the available fuel supply has been reduced to a minimum and the situation has been further irritated by the ban placed on smokeless coal. As a consequence of his representations it is probable that Mr. McAdoo will issue orders giving coal shipments to Chicago priority over other western freight movements. This question will be decided today.

To Save Rail Coal.

How to effect the greatest possible saving of coal is the most important question now before the railroads operating in and out of Chicago and every effort during the next few days will be expended to reduce consumption.

Through the reduction of passenger service, much already has been done, it was announced yesterday by railroad heads, but they feel sure a still greater saving can be effected.

Special committees appointed to reroute through freight and to bring further reductions in passenger train service met yesterday and decided upon courses of action.

Establish Direct Routes.

The freight routing committee, headed by J. G. Woodworth, vice president of the Northern Pacific, took up the work of establishing direct routes, regardless of the individual ownership of the roads. In recent years, Chairman Woodworth told the committee, western roads have been giving this matter careful study and have already established a number of direct routes.

A tentative plan arranged yesterday cuts train mileage of trains operating west, southwest, and northwest of Chicago approximately 50 per cent.

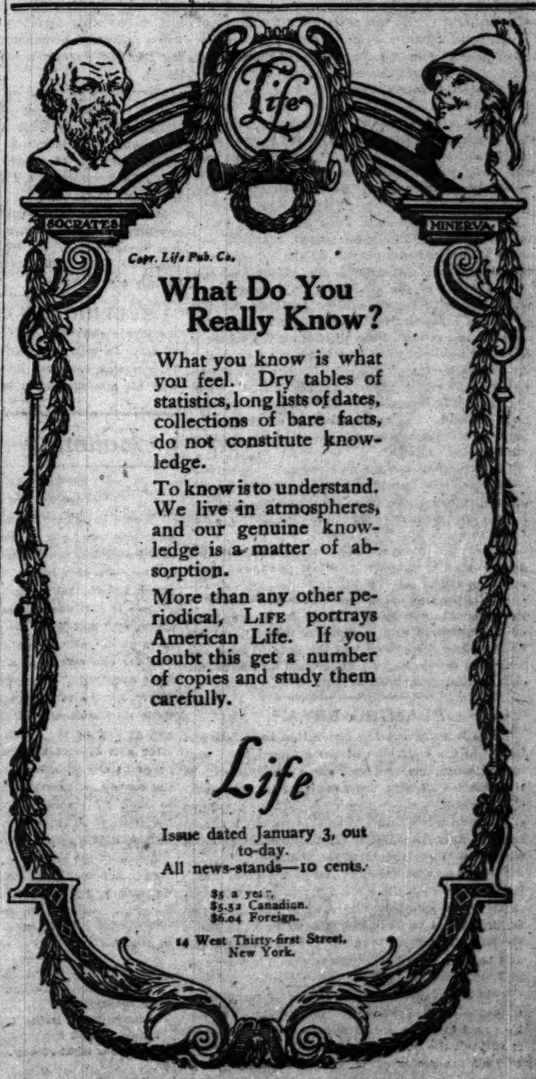

B. L. Winchell, director of traffic for the Union Pacific and chairman of the committee on passenger train reduction, announced that the committee had decided on additional withdrawals of trains. Some will be taken off at once, while others will not be withdrawn until the California tourist season, now at its height, closes.

On Sunday, Jan. 23, every western railroad will change its passenger schedules, R. H. Aishton, president of the Northwestern and chairman of the special railroad committee on national defense, announced yesterday.

PLANS ZONE SYSTEM.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Director General of Railroads McAdoo has completed plans to divide the country into districts, with a man at the head of each who will have direct supervision over railroads embraced in this particular territory. The zone system will be applied first as a means of breaking up the present freight congestion and of keeping the railroads hereafter cleared of blockades. It is already partly in operation in eastern classification territory. The plan now is to extend the zone system to embrace the entire country.

Immediate rehabilitation of the railroads by purchase of new rolling stock will be the next work taken up by Mr. McAdoo.

—Stephen Decatur.

TO WIN THIS WAR.

(1) A superior war council.
(2) Ships.
(3) Cannon.
(4) A modern army.

A modern army: The general staff system: The intradepartmental jealousies and conflicts of authority which had interfered with efficiency in the higher management of our army affairs were the result of the piecemeal military legislation which has been the curse of our army since it was founded. Before the passage of the general staff act in 1903 there was constant friction between the commanding general and the chiefs of the war department bureaus which existed by independent acts of law and were not amenable to his direction or compelled to coördinate with one another.

To do away with this and provide the secretary of war with an expert agency able not only to advise him on all professional military matters but to harmonize the management of the army, the office of chief of the general staff and the general staff corps were created, based upon the best foreign models, as far as consistent with American conditions. But, unfortunately, the conflict of interests remained, and the general staff system seems to have fallen heir to the hostility directed against the commanding general.

The advantage of bureau chiefs over defenders of the general staff system lies in their long incumbency of office at Washington and the influence they gain with congressmen for whom they are able to do favors. Among these bureau chiefs the adjutant general had especial power and influence, and during the incumbency of that office by Gen. Ainsworth led the opposition to the development of the general staff system, with the aid of the chairman of the house committee on military affairs, former Congressman Hay.

Ainsworth was a typical bureaucrat. He had been an army surgeon, who had never commanded a platoon. But in his service at Washington he had made himself friends in congress through amiable attentions to the requirements of congressmen, especially, it is said, through the establishment of a card catalogue system by which congressmen seeking the civil war records of constituents asking pensions could be promptly provided with the necessary data. His views on military matters were reactionary.

Hay, the head of the military affairs committee of the house after the Democrats carried it in Taft's term, was a man of stubborn force and the narrowest views on all defense matters. He was opposed to all expansion of our military establishment and to the whole attempt to modernize its organization both as to line and staff.

It is not necessary now to recall in detail the course of the opposition which appeared soon after the retirement of Mr. Root. But the blindness and ruthlessness of its hostility were never so startlingly illustrated as in the defense act of June, 3, 1916, which limited the number of officers who could be assigned to the general staff to fifty-five, and provided that no more than half this number could be employed at or near Washington at one time.

Bear in mind that this was over a year after the sinking of the Lusitania and while the submarine controversy was as yet unsettled, though the issues raised pointed straight toward war. Bear in mind also that Mexico was in chaos and that the whole national guard had been mobilized for possible service in that country. The chief of staff, supported by the secretary of war, had asked for authority to increase the general staff, in view of its new responsibilities, to ninety-six. The response of congress was an actual reduction of the existing number, a staff available of twenty-seven.

Compare this with the practice of France, which details its staff officers from the line as we do. The peace strength of the French army was 600,000. There were to be detailed to the general staff 640 officers below the grade of brigadier general, with no limitation on the detail of general officers, which varied before the war between ten and fifteen.

Our army consisted in June of 1916 of about 180,000, including Philippine scouts, regulars, and about 125,000 national guard. At the French ratio this would have called for a general staff of 270.

As a result of the act of 1916 we entered the world war with twenty officers available for the enormous task confronting the army. Of these, says the last report of the chief of staff, nine were employed by the chief of staff in his office on duties prescribed by law, "the coördination and supervision of the entire military establishment." Upon the remaining eleven devolved "the study of military problems, the preparation of plans for the national defense, and the utilization of the military forces in time of war."

This situation calls for no comment. No private enterprise could survive such a policy. The army and the country are paying for it and will continue to pay. But congress ought to know and the public ought to know why it is paying.

Yet at the present time the hostility to the general staff is rampant in Washington, and there are very evident the old influences at work to discredit it. Having cut the general staff to the bone, its opponents now wish to make it the scapegoat of the blunders and inefficiency which it would have largely forestalled had the general staff system been developed as planned and as the experience of military nations taught.

BLAMING BRYAN.

There is an increasing disposition to isolate Mr. Bryan in the confusion of our national folly, load him with our sins, and send him packing them into the desert. He was the false prophet who muddled our opinions. He kept us deaf to the pleadings of common sense. He told us that we never should have to fight and that if the impossible happened we were divinely appointed for fighting.

He told us that the hard fist of the plain American could knock the mailed fist of any predatory power into splinters and fragments. He persuaded us not to do anything to protect ourselves. He had the gift of tongues and we believed him and he is responsible for the situation in which we find ourselves.

This is too convenient a method of transferring or escaping responsibility. Mr. Bryan did what he could to make a bad situation worse. He did it with all the misguided sincerity of his character and all the power of his evangelistic ability. No doubt when he recovers his wind from the blow events gave him he will try to do it again.

But Mr. Bryan cannot be allowed to carry everybody's sins into the desert. Certainly no one man could fool all the people in this fashion. He had many coadjutors. A government went to the people upon this issue. It was indorsed. In the administration and out of it, in congress and out of it, this gospel of the power of weakness was preached.

Responsibility does not attach exclusively to Mr. Bryan. He said nothing which was not government opinion reflected in government attitude and popular opinion reflected in popular attitude.

We now want to blame some one for the mistakes we have made and seemingly cannot be interested in the mistakes we are making now. We want to blame Bryan and continue to hold to his ideas. We are not dealing with the future now in any respect different from the manner in which we dealt with the future two years ago.

GOMPERS' AID TO NATIONALISM.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has been a sound preacher of nationalism to people who may need strengthening of this sentiment.

There is a labor propaganda which intends to destroy nationalism if it can. It is urged by violence, and it appeals to cupidity. The I. W. W. is an organized aspect of it. The propaganda is so violent and senseless that it can be used by German nationalism against American nationalism.

These obliterating tendencies are fought by the sensible men in organized labor. They appreciate the danger which would be encountered if prejudice, fury, cupidity, and wild desires to level down social structure gained control.

But even in considerate and sensible unionism there is a distrust of national purposes when they impose burdens on the people. Unionism represents the continuing struggle of groups to obtain advantages for their groups. Sympathies and prejudices operate by groups, and material advantages are obtained by groups.

Unionism under bad leadership might have been committed to the opinion that this war for the security of the United States was a war for the benefit of a money making class.

War profiteers have had a large place in popular imagination. Money making at the expense of Europe was fattening a class of Americans, and labor was looking with distrust at the industries which developed and grew upon war.

It would have been a decided injury to American nationalism at this critical time if unionism had produced narrowed group leadership which eliminated all national considerations and dealt with the war as a capitalistic endeavor of a rich and favored class to grow richer and get more favors.

Gompers has fought such prejudices and has preached nationalism. His New Year's statement is an uncompromising statement of the obligations of all Americans, and his influence is immensely valuable. Men in unionism respect his judgment and his character. Nationalism needs protection from the elements which attack it, and the services of patriotic men in labor organizations are invaluable.

DECLINING DECORATION.

John Galsworthy refused knighthood in the British New Year's list because he did not comprehend how it would add anything to his value. This rejection of decoration was based upon the "conviction that literature is its own reward."

If not its own reward, it probably is the measure of its own worth. Mr. Galsworthy, however, is an extreme radical in considering the relation of the source of the reward to the character of the thing rewarded.

In the human struggle for decoration no such relation exists. If it did, few of us would have anything to pin on our coats and give us the distinction craved by every person who feels the obliterating presence of the multitudes.

We do not like to lose our personalities in a crowd and suffer our egotism to be obliterated. Xerxes did not weep because the myriads which marched by him would all have to die, but because they were all alive. Even his purple did not keep him from being swallowed up in the merciless waves of human beings, by their numbers suggesting that he was an inconspicuous and valueless insect.

The human rebellion against being a black ant among millions of black ants is satisfied by anything which gives distinction. If the Retail Grocers' association desires to give an author a medal, he will take it. If a town council of Patagonians voted an astronomer a red ribbon, he would wear it proudly to dinner.

Mr. Galsworthy, in refusing any decoration of any kind from anybody, is an extraordinarily radical human being. He will live to regret his independence. We do not care what elevates us, if it be only a soap box.

KEEPING US OUT OF WAR.

A cynic commentator on the recent revelations of delay in war preparation suggests that, as Mr. Wilson was reelected because he kept us out of war, his administration is now making good.

Editorial of the Day

[From the New York Tribune.]

"Where do you get the absurd facts you print?" is a favorite query put to newspaper men. In the view of these cynics, newspapers spend most of their time misspelling names, imagining incidents that never happened, and generally manhandling life as it is led.

There is just one answer to be made to the query above, and that is: "Newspapers get such of their facts as are absurd from the absurd human beings who for one reason or a thousand refuse to relate facts accurately." Newspapers, truth telling newspapers, spend a very large part of their time correcting these misstatements, running them to their source, and getting at the truth. A certain proportion of error gets by—not as great a proportion as can be heard in any village neighborhood gossip, for it is the concern of newspapers, of honest ones, that is, to allow for errors and correct them, whereas it is the concern of those other purveyors of news, gossips, to create errors whenever they are more interesting than the truth.

The next time you find an error in your favorite newspaper, try an experiment. Try to capture one small fact yourself, in your own home town. You will quickly discover just how wary a bird the truth is and how very unpopular.

THE COLONELS MUST STAND TOGETHER.

[Col. Watterson in defense of Col. Doores.]

Colonel Doores is a gentleman of prominence in Bowling Green. His record is not, we believe, disreputable. It is not even mercantile. He is not of the bourgeois. He has been by inclination and experience an office-holder, which is to be in his community—in his state, it might be added—a person of "class" as well as a member of a well-defined class; a member of an aristocracy more or less leisured between political campaigns, and never so engulfed in toil as to be oblivious to opportunities for the social intercourse and the recreation which reflect and tend to increase the higher culture that bespeaks and ennobles the aristocrat. Why should it be assumed that Colonel Doores would sell ninety-five pints of bottled-in-bond whisky, after the labor of transporting it from Louisville in luggage containers; after the task of coming to Louisville to make personally and discriminatingly the selection of ninety-five pints of native beverage in its native purity! What is there in the possession of ninety-five pints of bottled-in-bond whisky that suggests to the unprejudiced mind a money grabber's ambition to traffic upon famine in a prohibition town; to batten upon the misfortune of unsupplied neighbors! If there is no further evidence than that the police counted ninety-five pints in Colonel Doore's "grips," while the draymen waited, why did the authorities permit the liberty of Colonel Doores to be for a moment infringed, and suspicion of his purpose thus created in the minds of those who could not personally use ninety-five pints if they had them!

SOME PAINS.

APPENDICITIS.—The pain of appendicitis is at first colicky in character and located toward the center of the abdomen and the region of the stomach. There is apt to be nausea at this period. Later the pain ceases to be colicky, becomes steadier, and harder, and is more liable to be limited to the right side, low down.

Still later, after the case has become one of peritonitis secondary to appendicitis, the steadier pains of a more general peritonitis are felt over the extent of the abdomen. The tenderness is most marked on a line between the umbilicus and the spine of the hip bone and about midway between them. This is known as McBurney's point.

PAIN IN KIDNEY COLIC.—Preceding the violent attack there is a history of days or weeks of intermittent or chronic aching in the back. There may be twitches of violent pain. Suddenly some day as the result of some jolting a severe attack is precipitated. The violent pain at first shoots from the upper part of the small of the back around the body to the umbilicus. Then it runs around the brim of the pelvis to the middle of the abdomen. Next it runs around the upper part of the leg. The testicle is sore and painful. The pain shoots down the leg, but seldom travels farther than the knee.

PAIN OF SCIATICA.—The pain of this form of neuralgia runs down the back of the thigh from the pelvis. It is generally worse above the knee, though it may extend to the feet. The pain is constant. It is generally worse at night.

The zones and points of tenderness are the back part of the thigh and especially along the course of the great sciatic nerve—the middle of the calf of the leg—and in the bend of the knee. If the knee is flexed and deep pressure made against the bones at the back causes a pain to run up the nerve in the back of the thigh the diagnosis is reasonably certain.

PAIN IN RAYNAUD'S DISEASE.—Raynaud's disease most frequently attacks a finger. Location in a toe is next in frequency. It may involve the tip of the nose or a part of an ear. The pain is described as drawing or burning in character. It comes on without any adequate cause, except the fact that it is a cold weather disease. It lasts a while and then disappears as unexpectedly as it came. After an intermission it reappears just as in the first instance.

At first there is no ulcer or other sign. There may be a small white cold area or the area may be blue or swollen, but there is no break in the skin or evidence of inflammation. Later on the affected finger or toe may become gangrenous or ulcerated. The pain of Raynaud's disease is made less when the limb is elevated. Wrapping in warm dressings likewise lessens the pain.

SOUR MILK FOR POULTRY.

J. K. S. writes: "Can you tell me anything inexpensive to put in milk to make it sour in cold weather to give poultry?"

REPLY.

Put a tablespoonful of today's sour milk into a can of milk to be soured. About once every three months start a new batch with some starter bought from a creamery supply house.

NOT A SMALLPOX CURE.

B. S. writes about cream of tartar as a cure for smallpox, and sends an old clipping found among her father's papers. The clipping states that cream of tartar "is known to have cured 100,000 cases without a failure. It never leaves a mark, never causes blindness, and always prevents tedious illness." The woman wishes to give this remedy wide publicity if we think to do so would do good.

REPLY.

I note the next two items on this clipping. One says that Gen. Grant is quite confident he can be elected for the third term. The next states that Kendall's spavin cure is the very best remedy for spavin, splints, curb, callous, and ringbone in beast or man. Gen. Grant was not elected president the third time, nor had cream of tartar cured hundreds of thousands of cases of smallpox. Smallpox generally gets well of itself, and I am sure a few hundred cases have gotten well in spite of but not by reason of cream of tartar. The spavin cure will not cure splint or ringbone in man or beast. Neither will cream of tartar cure smallpox. The smallpox which has prevailed in this country for twenty years is very mild. In consequence of its mildness the people have become careless about it. Armies are always free from smallpox because they are always properly vaccinated. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

CURE FOR BUNION.

Mrs. W. M. M. writes: "Can you tell me any cure for an inflamed bunion or anything that might help it?"

REPLY.

Wear a very loose shoe and protect the bunion by pads or cotton. In a short while the inflammation will have subsided. Then proceed to straighten your toes. This can sometimes be done by wearing pads between the toes. The shoes should be wide at the toe, straight from the inside of the heel to the inside of the sole at the ball, and at the toe, and tending to toe in. If the toes cannot be straightened in this way they should be operated on. When the toes have been straightened the bunion will no longer inconvenience you.

OFFERS FAKE CURE.

J. K. K. writes: "I have had a cataract on my left eye for fifteen years and am totally blind in that eye. A doctor called at my house claiming to be from the Rockefeller College of Research and said he could cure the cataract with radium treatment, a complete cure or money refunded. He also claimed my right eye was beginning to be affected and that I was threatened with total blindness. He left glasses with me which he said were worth $50. Will you kindly tell me if it is possible to cure my eyes with this treatment?"

REPLY.

When this faker calls again have the sheriff arrest him.

CITES FIGURES ON TAX NEEDS

Every two story flat building in Chicago pays annual taxes averaging $79. Of this, the city receives, for its corporate fund, but an average of $15.20.

State Senator Edward J. Glackin, a member of the joint state senate, house, and city council committee, which is trying to agree on a program for asking Gov. Lowden to call a special session of the legislature to give the city powers to increase taxation, will point this out this afternoon at a meeting of the joint committee.

"As an illustration," said Senator Glackin, "it is well to bear in mind that the city gets only $15.20 a year from each two story flat building. I don't believe anybody will claim that this pays for the police, fire, and health protection given by the city, or for the cleaning of the streets and alleys and the removal of garbage."

1944 Hudson avenue	$ 63.09
4434 North Seeley avenue	108.06
2106 Eastwood avenue	86.68
2330 Warren avenue	69.80
3238 Forest avenue	72.25
8844 Exchange avenue	83.90
4133 Cornelia avenue	66.82

Ald. William F. Lipps, chairman of the joint committee, is to point out at the meeting that the city has retrenched $3,657,793 in its estimated expenditures for this year. He declared that he intended to show how this retrenchment is met only by giving the city less fire and police protection, less garbage and ash removal, and less street lighting and other municipal advantages.

The city council's retrenchment program caused havoc in the city hall yesterday. The "hall" started its first eight hours a day program. Only the city clerk and city collector's offices abided by the new rule, but all departments will adopt it today.

A total of 151 city employés were laid off yesterday. This does not include street and sewer laborers or the men who are in the army and navy, whose salaries the council is not to appropriate for. Following is a list of the departments which laid off men:

Board of local improvements	60
Public works	210
Buildings	32
Health	44
City attorney	15
City sealer	2

Commissioner of Public Works Bennett estimated that he would have to lay off 500 men, mostly laborers, in his department to meet the council's retrenchment program.

CHARGE PYRAMID IN MILK PROFITS

The first controverting figures of milk producers relative to the cost of milk production will be presented by witnesses for the City club, representing the consumer, when they appear before the milk commission. They will question the fairness of the farmers' bookkeeping, which charges feed against the milk account at the market price.

When producers include the cost of feed at the market price in their estimate of milk production cost, and still ask a profit on the milk itself, they seek to pile a profit on a profit, the City club will tell the commission.

Representatives of the City club expected to take the stand yesterday, but their appearance was delayed by testimony submitted by Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson, showing that milk is being sold within 210 miles of Chicago for $1.68 in the face of a price of $3.22 here.

Evidence that milk producers considered a price of $3 per hundred for milk reasonable last fall, shortly before they voted on a price of $3.42, was submitted in a letter from G. C. Gridley, manager of the Evergreen farm, at Prairie View, Ill., to W. J. Kittle, secretary of the producers. The letter was offered to show collusion in the price fixing. An extract says:

"Most producers are talking about $3 milk and we do not think that is too high. Good management and carefully laid plans should, therefore, secure a satisfactory price for winter milk, but the uncertainty of feed prices and labor conditions would warn that unusually careful thought should be exercised and possibly unusual methods employed in setting the price."

Ald. Nance of the city council health committee expects to appear before the commission tomorrow to submit the committee's plans for solution of the milk problem.

Today Mr. Michels will put on the stand a Mr. Kimmelshue of the Kankakee local, who will testify that the producers of the Kankakee district believed they could sell milk at $3 per hundred pounds and still make a profit.

Kimmelshue will be followed by a witness from the Aurora local, who will testify that the Aurora producers entered the Sept. 21 convention with $2.90 as their price. This will be followed by testimony tending to show that in the face of lower prices agreed on by many locals as being fair, the price was arbitrarily set at $3.42 for the entire Chicago district.

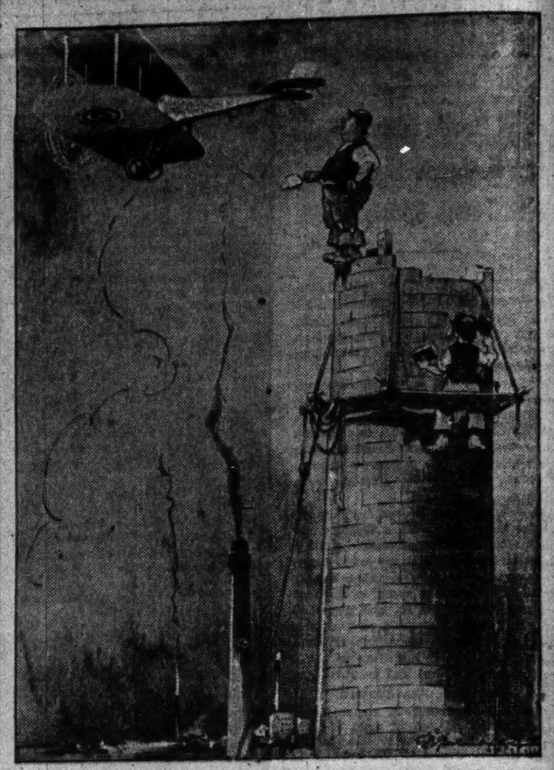

Prof. H. A. Harding, head of the dairy husbandry department of the University of Illinois, will testify that on Sept. 21, the day of the $3.42 convention, he gave to C. H. Potter, president, and Willis J. Kittle, secretary of the milk producers' body, cost estimates showing milk could be sold with a profit for $2.75, Mr. Michels told THE TRIBUNE last night.

The federal department of agriculture took a hand in the Illinois milk investigation yesterday when Secretary Houston designated Jesse B. Bain, assistant to the chief of the dairy division, as the department's representative at the hearing here. Mr. Bain was named in response to a telegraphic request from the Chicago investigators.

Mr. Bain will give the Chicago committee the results of a comprehensive survey of the costs of milk production conducted by the dairy division over a period of two years, 1916 and 1917, on farms in Indiana.

LIGHTS FOR NEW SUBDIVISION.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—There is a comparatively new subdivision in the city just north of Twelfth street and east of Austin avenue in which there are a number of houses which are occupied and have been for the last eight months. There are absolutely no lights on any of the streets at night. R. H. Z.

We have made a survey of the locations mentioned and determined the necessity for the lamps as requested, but there are no funds available for work of this kind at the present time. The locations will be placed on the docket of lamps to be installed and the lamps will be placed in service as soon as practicable after additional appropriations are made for such purpose.

WILLIAM G. KEITH, Commissioner.

TEMPORARY REPAIR MADE.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—At the northeast corner of California avenue and Division street, in the parkway, there is a hole about six feet long and four feet wide which is dangerous to traffic. On numerous occasions cases of merchandise have been thrown off vehicles when bumping through this hole. G. F. MAHLER.

This depression has been filled in with cinders, which will afford temporary relief. Permanent repairs will be made early next season when we begin our repair work.

F. S. MITCHELL, Superintendent of Streets.

APPROPRIATION EXHAUSTED.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—About two months ago the property owners on Twenty-first street between Kildare and Kostner avenues signed a petition to have street lights erected in this block. Up to the present time nothing has been done. A. W. L.

While the survey determined the necessity of additional lamps, there are no funds for their installation at this time. When the 1918 appropriations are available it is hoped that a number of cases, similar to the above, will be provided for.

WILLIAM G. KEITH, Commissioner.

NO PASSPORTS FOR ALIEN ENEMIES.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Can an alien enemy obtain passports to Canada?

MRS. F. NEUBERGER.

FILL OUT QUESTIONNAIRE.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I registered for the draft last June in New York. How does the new draft, effective Dec. 15, affect me? Am I compelled to register again and answer the new questions, or are all those who registered last June immune from the new law? E. C.

Every person who registered last June and has not already been inducted into military service will receive a questionnaire and be classified. It will not be necessary for you to register again, but you must fill out the said questionnaire.

CORPORATION'S FEDERAL TAX.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A corporation makes $40,000 during 1917. Its capital is $50,000, including $20,000 that has been carried as "good will," the latter mentioned item being the value placed by the stockholders upon the name of a business to which they succeeded some seven or eight years ago. The capital stock and good will items are identically the same as they were during the pre-war period of 1911-'12-'13, during which time the company's profits averaged over 9 per cent. What will the federal income and war tax be on the above? J. C. J.

The tax is based on "invested capital" rather than on capital stock. Refer to sec. 207 for the items to include. Many bookkeeping questions may arise on which it is difficult to advise you in advance. You can write to us again if sec. 207 does not clear up your difficulties.

Your facts raise no problem on the income tax. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CANNOT REPRESENT AS ATTORNEY.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A laborer who has no education sues his employer for a small amount of money. Can his father or brother represent him as an attorney, or can the defendant's attorney object to their so doing? M. W.

They could not represent him as attorney, but they could be in court and instruct him as to what to do.

If the claim is for wages there is a statute that will allow you to recover, in addition to your claim, attorney's fees. Under this you would not have a great deal of difficulty in getting a regular attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

As but limited space can be given letters in this department, writers must confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Unless they give us their full names and addresses their letters will not be considered. No manuscript will be returned unless the writer sends postage for that purpose.

T. R.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—[Editor of The Tribune:]—Theodore Roosevelt as secretary of war would do more to smash German morale and make the kaiser see Germany's hopelessness than the destruction of the Hindenburg line for 100 miles. It would also be a great encouragement to our allies. This is the people's war and we have a right to ask the administration for the best leaders obtainable.

THURMAN R. HUSTON.

NASTY SALT.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I wish to protest against the abominable custom of sprinkling our streets with salt every time we have a snowstorm.

Every one knows that snow and salt produce a very low temperature, and the slush formed by this combination is much colder than ice. The leather of our shoes absorb this mixture of salt and water, which is retained as long as the shoe lasts, and as salt attracts dampness the soles of our shoes are damp whenever there happens to be any moisture on the walks or streets; this results in colds and sometimes even pneumonia.

The streets are not as difficult to travel on when covered with snow as they are when the snow has been reduced to a filthy slush by the addition of salt. This dirty slush is tracked onto the walks and from there into our offices and homes. Public health, cleanliness, and common sense all demand the abuse be discontinued.

M. H. RICHARDSON.

SILENCER FOR THEODORE.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Why is Theodore Roosevelt allowed to say things against the administration that, if said by a common man in a saloon, would bring polishing off by any patriot there, then arrest?

A. L. O'GRADY.

ABOLISHING POLICE STATIONS.

Morgan Park, Ill., Dec. 30.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Where is the justice of the city council's finance committee recommendation that twelve or fourteen police stations be abandoned in order to save $170,000 toward the city's deficit?

Is police protection the item to economize upon? It is well known that the city is worse than broke; it is bankrupt. In order to help recover from extravagant expense and unwise investments, Chief Schuettler recommends that the city fathers extend a cordial invitation to crime and criminals to enter these twelve or fourteen police districts from which stations are to be removed! Must we talk in dollar terms about everything? Isn't a home worth anything to anybody? Are not the women giving up enough these days to be entitled to at least some feeling of security? Should we be asked to give up police protection in order to cover up incompetent city financing?

If a man's business were conducted by such a false sense of values it would soon perish. If any woman, by purchasing too much fuss and feathers, necessitated the cutting off of heat and light from her home, she would be called a fool. I desire to know if THE TRIBUNE thinks that Morgan Park—nearest neighbor to the notorious village of Burr Oak, near to city, township, county, and state borders, should be left defenseless?

DAWLEY PALMER.

A MUNITIONS CENTER.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Canada has discovered that a city of 66,000 exposed to ammunition accidents is a source of terrible danger. Now we are told Chicago is to be made an ammunition center. Even if there were no anti-war sentiment here, is it not a menace that should be avoided?

ENGLISH LABOR URGENTLY ASKS MANY REFORMS

No More Territory, World Court, and Minimum Wage Sought.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Universal enforcement of a national minimum wage, democratic control of industry, a revolution in national finance, and the surplus wealth for the common good—these are the four cardinal points of the labor reconstruction policy after the war as submitted in a draft report of the British Labor party prepared by a subcommittee of the executive committee for submission at the party conference next June, or before should a general election render it necessary.

The title of the draft report is "Labor and the New Social Order," and the report declares that what has to be reconstructed after the war is not this or that government department or social machinery but "society itself."

"If," the report continues, "we are to escape the decay of civilization itself, which the Japanese statesman Count Okuma (former premier) foresees, we must insure the building up of a new social order."

Seeks International Council.

The report concludes by stating that the party seeks no increase of territory and disclaims all idiea of an economic war.

"We stand," the report says, "for the immediate establishment as part of the treaty of peace of a universal league or society of nations, a supernational authority, with an international high court to try all justiciable issues between nations, and an international legislature to enact such common laws as can be mutually agreed upon, and an interfational council of mediation to endeavor to settle without ultimate conflict those disputes which are not justiciable.

"The world has suffered too much from the war for the Labor party to have any other policy than lasting peace."

No Plums After Peace.

Regarding democratic control of industry the report complains that neither the government nor either of the great political parties has yet formulated any plan for dealing with the demobilization of the millions of soldiers, and says:

"Any government allowing discharged soldiers or munition workers to fall into the clutches of charity or the poor law would have to be instantly driven from office by an outburst of popular indignation. The Labor party has refused absolutely to believe that the British people will permanently tolerate any reconstruction or the perpetuation of the disorganization, waste, and inefficiency involved in their abandonment to a jostling crowd of separate private employers, with minds bent not on the service of the community but by the very law of their being only on the utmost possible profiteering."

Minimum of $7.50 Weekly.

The report suggests a minimum wage of $7.50 weekly as the lowest statutory baseline for the least skilled adult workers and that the hours of labor, wherever practicable, should not exceed forty-eight weekly. It urges that the government should prepare for the demobilization period all kinds of public works, including the building of millions of new cottages for the rehousing of the population.

The report insists upon the abolition of the house of lords and strenuously opposes any new second chamber. It demands also the nationalization of the land, railways, mines, and the production of electrical power and urges the taking of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic drink out of the hands of private enterprise, "whose interest is to promote the utmost possible consumption."

SCANDINAVIA TO GET U. S. GOODS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—An agreement has been reached between the war trade board and the Scandinavian countries whereby a quantity of necessities shall be sent to Denmark, Sweden, and Norway.

FAMINE DANGER NEAR.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 2.—The earliest 1918 estimates declare that if present conditions continue Norway's food supply will reach the danger point in March and Sweden's in May. Denmark is the best off. Sweden is unable substantially to help Finland much longer. The kaiser's militant New Year's message to the German troops creates despondency throughout Scandinavia.

Wins Over Socialist on "U. S. First" Issue

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2.—Louis Fons, Republican, running on an "American first" platform, defeated Edmund F. Melms, Socialist, in a special election in the Eighth senatorial district today. Fons will fill the seat vacated in the state senate by Frank Reguse, who was expelled last spring by the legislature for an alleged disloyal remark.

Fons was elected by a majority of about 400 votes, excluding the soldiers' vote.

Propaganda at Work to Stop Germany-Chile Break

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Evidence of organized German propaganda in Chile, supported by almost every subject of the kaiser in that country, has been received at the state department in the form of a circular issued by the German-Chilean league urging every member to do his utmost to bring about delay in the severance of relations between Chile and Germany.

OFFICIAL REPORTS ON ALL WAR FRONTS

Aviators and English batteries brought down three enemy airplanes. Two others fell as the result of aerial battles with Italian and French aviators. During the night enemy aviators dropped a few bombs on Mestre and Treviso. No damage was done nor were there any casualties. Enemy aviators also bombed Bassano, where one person was killed and five persons were wounded. Slight damage was done.

Our squadrons bombed aviation camps at Lacomina and Aviano, causing extensive fires. Enemy movements at the railway station of St. Stino de Livenza and enemy barracks have been bombed effectively by an Italian dirigible.

"On the Italian front there were artillery duels at times on the Asiago plateau, in the Monte Tomba region, and on the lower Piave.

"Early on Dec. 26 our men on the bridgehead near Zenson were withdrawn without loss to the eastern bank of the Piave. The enemy did not discover this evacuation until Monday. He directed an uninterrupted fire of artillery and mine throwers until that day against the field works which had been left behind."

FRENCH FRONT

BRITISH.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Yesterday evening, under cover of heavy bombardment, three parties of the enemy attempted to raid our positions in the neighborhood of Mericourt, southeast of Lens.

The hostile parties were disorganized by our artillery fire and they failed to reach our trenches. They then were attacked in No Man's Land by our patrols, who inflicted many casualties and secured a few prisoners.

Other raids attempted by the enemy in the course of the night south of Lens, at hill 70 in the neighborhood of the Menin road, and north of Paschendaele were all repulsed. We secured a few more prisoners in these encounters.

NIGHT STATEMENT.

In addition to the raids reported in this morning's communique, the enemy attempted last night to raid one of our posts in the neighborhood of Oppy, but was driven off before reaching our trenches.

This afternoon the enemy's artillery has shown increased activity in the neighborhood of the Ypres-Comines canal. On the remainder of the front there was nothing of special interest.

AVIATION.

More than 200 bombs were dropped Tuesday on various targets, including driven down out of control. Another was shot down inside our lines by anti-aircraft guns. One of our machines is missing.

GERMAN.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—Army group of Prince Rupprecht: The activity of the artillery increased in isolated sectors in Flanders. North and south of Lens the artillery fighting was revived intermittently in support of successful reconnoitering operations. Between Arras and St. Quentin the firing became violent at times.

The number of British prisoners taken in the last few days south of Marcoing (Cambrai front) was increased to 500.

Army group of the German crown prince: There was increased artillery activity north of Prosnes and on both sides of Ornes. Reconnoitering advances at several points led to the capture of a number of French soldiers.

FRENCH.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—There were intermittent artillery actions at some points on the front. We made a successful raid in the region north of Courtecon and brought back prisoners. There were patrol encounters south of Corbeny. Everywhere else the night passed in quiet.

AVIATION.

In the course of numerous aerial combats French pilots yesterday brought down four German airplanes, a large ammunition depot near Courtrai and the Inglemunster airdrome.

In air fighting two hostile machines were brought down and two others. Two other German machines, badly damaged, fell within the enemy lines.

NIGHT STATEMENT.

There is nothing to report during the day except quite marked artillery activity in the sector of Beaumont and Caurieres wood.

BELGIAN.

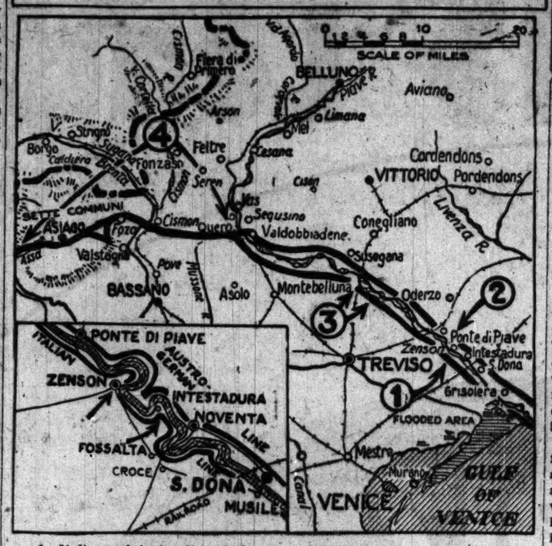

PARIS, Jan. 2.—On the first of January the artillery activity was not intense. On the second an enemy detachment, protected by violent barrages, succeeded in gaining a foothold in one of our posts in the region of Merckem. An immediate counter attack by our troops drove back the Germans, who left several prisoners in our hands. During the day there was slight artillery activity.

MACEDONIAN FRONT

FRENCH.

Lack of Necessities Rains Foes' Industrial Plants

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—A Swiss engineer employed for many years in a great factory at Magdeburg has just come out of Germany, with a report that German industrial machinery is breaking down at a rapid rate. His report, cabled to Washington today, says shortage of lubricants, rubber, and rare metals necessary to alloy steel is almost destroying industrial plants and that lack of grease has reduced the output of German machinery from its former figure of 80 per cent of its working force to less than 30 per cent.

INFLAMED ECZEMA HEALED BY CUTICURA

On Face and Arms. Spread Rapidly. Lost Sleep.

"Eczema broke out on my face and arms and spread rapidly. At first it was only in little red spots, but later it took the form of sore eruptions. These blotches caused a burning sensation and my skin was inflamed and sore. The eruption caused itching, and I lost sleep.

"This trouble lasted about three weeks. Then I wrote for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I felt so much better that I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Ointment and after using them a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Almeta Eckes, 513-20th Ave. N., Minneapolis, Minn., June 23, 1917.

Most skin troubles might be prevented by using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for every-day toilet purposes.

BRITAIN TO SEND 'DEMOCRACY MAN' TO REPLACE RICE

New Envoy Expected to Be More in Harmony with U. S.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, has been recalled by his government and will be replaced by an envoy deemed more in sympathy with the American people and their institutions.

Sir Cecil called on Secretary of State Lansing today and informed him that he had been recalled "on a leave of absence," which, according to dispatches from London, is the polite form given the decision of the British government to withdraw the ambassador from Washington.

Recall No Surprise.

The recall of Spring-Rice has been expected ever since Lloyd George became premier largely through the tremendous influence wielded by Viscount Northcliffe. The latter has been outspoken in his dissatisfaction with Sir Cecil, and it is believed that Viscount Northcliffe returned to England recently more than ever convinced that the ambassador is injuring the interests of Great Britain in the United States.

Viscount Northcliffe once said that, according to the impression in London, "Sir Cecil Spring-Rice sits all day long in his charming house in the capital wearing a kind of anti-gas mask and surrounded by a number of mutes in monocles."

No Line on Successor.

No names were officially suggested today as the probable successor of Ambassador Spring-Rice, but the impression prevailed that a man thoroughly identified with the prosecution of the war, and whose sympathies for democratic institutions are known, will be selected.

In diplomatic circles the intelligence caused less surprise than among the general public, as it had been predicted that the negotiations conducted by Ambassador Spring-Rice before the United States entered the war, and in which sharp issue was frequently taken by him with this government, although under instructions from his own, made it advisable for another person to be sent here as ambassador.

Will Discuss Plans Today for Base Hospital in Paris

Preparatory discussion in the plans for the establishment of a great base hospital in Paris for the care of wounded, sick, and convalescent soldiers of the United States and the allies, will take place today in the Hotel La Salle when Gov. Harding of Iowa and the secretaries of the allied hospital unit commission will meet.

ENGLAND TO USE ONLY PART OF BRITISH MUSEUM

LONDON, Jan. 2.—An official communication was issued this evening dealing with the government's proposed intention to take over the British museum for use by the air board.

The communication says the government intends to utilize for office purposes the considerable space made vacant in the museum by the removal of art treasures to places where they are not exposed to air raids, and that special precautions have been taken to insure the safety of the contents of the museum which have not been removed.

Strong protests were echoed when it was first anounced that the government purposed to take over the museum.

British Trawlers Sweep Up 4,600 Teuton Mines in Year

LONDON, Jan. 2.—During the last year 1,000 trawlers, which are used as mine sweepers around the British isles have swept an average of 3,000 square miles daily. During the year they swept up 4,600 German mines.

On Making Shirts

MR. JACKSON and his associates set out, a few months ago, to develop locally the full possibilities in fine shirtmaking.

Some of the pains taken on Jackson Shirts would seem finical and foolish to you if they were explained.

Only technical experts appreciate all that is done.

The man who possesses it feels this superiority without understanding it—or caring to.

The Jackson Salesrooms make a pleasant place on the second floor at Michigan and Madison, with the life of the avenue flowing beneath their windows. There is plenty of daylight, regardless of weather conditions. So it is both a pleasant and a safe place in which to make your selections.

The shirt factory is in the same building, under the constant supervision of Mr. Jackson and those associated with him.

Jackson Shirts are made to order only. They are available to all, the price ranging widely, according to materials.

APPEAL BOARDS PLAN TO HANDLE 50,000 CASES

Expect Thousands to Object to Decision Under Questionnaire.

During the questionnaire classification of registered men now in progress the two district appeal boards expect to handle about 50,000 appeals from rulings made by local exemption boards. Although no definite figure can be set, it is estimated that there will be five times as many appeals filed as in the first call. On that occasion each board passed upon about 5,000 appeals.

The increase will result from the fact that while on the former occasion a man was either drafted or exampted altogether, on the present occasion he will be either listed in class one by his local board, which will result in his being among the first ones called, or he will be placed in one of the four deferred classifications.

May Seek to Change Class.

Thousands who believe they should be placed in class four will be placed in class three, and may appeal. Other thousands who are listed by their boards in class two may think they ought to go in class three or four, while still others placed in class one may think they ought to go in class two, three, or four.

In addition to these, the district boards must pass upon all claims for deferred classification or exemption on industrial and agricultural grounds, the local boards having no power to act on such claims.

Registrants Crowd Offices.

At general draft headquarters yesterday there was a continual stream of questionnaires. Col. James Romayne of Adjt. Gen. Dickson's staff was in charge.

When the local boards begin making their physical examinations, the district appeal boards expect to be swamped by appeals claiming physical unfitness. Persons who are declared fit by local boards but who believe themselves physically unfit may appeal to the second examining board.

ILLINOIS BOYS TO GET A TASTE OF TRENCH LIFE

Camp Logan, Houston, Tex., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—A taste of the conditions on the other side is coming to the men of the Prairie division soon. It is not going to be a small taste by any means. According to the plans of the division staff it will leave the men with a good impression of how the real thing will taste.

The trench system is the means whereby the end will be accomplished. This system will be completed and ready for the men by the middle of next week at the latest. Newspaper correspondents were taken through today by Capt. John P. Lucas, under whose direction it is being constructed, and Capt. William Simpson, senior instructor in the divisional schools and senior aid to Gen. Bell. Capt. Simpson recently returned from a trip to the front in France and accompanied the trip with stories of the trenches over there.

HARDENING UP AFTER HOLIDAYS AT CAMP GRANT

Strenuous Work Starts First Thing in the Morning.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Camp Grant, Ill., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Selective soldiers forgot the holiday season today in the rush of activity that marked Camp Grant's entrance into the new training era.

Unlike the "morning after" in civilian life, the division day was spent in tests of endurance, steady nerves and military metal. It opened with bayonet school for a number of junior officers while the rifle range was opened to marksmen of the various units in camp. Company hikes, strenuous physical drill, machine gun practice and hard marching for recruits made up the subject.

Shafer's Act Inspires.

Officers and men alike settled into the grim preparation for action that will be paramount during the weeks to come and found inspiration in the announcement that a Chicago boy, Lieut. Walter Shafer, former University of Chicago half back, has gone down on American war records as the first man "over the top" with the United States forces in France.

In barracks fighting men found an abundance of work to occupy their attention and counterbalance the attack of winter that made range and roads work a burden.

New Target Used.

Chicago's west side regiment, the Three Hundred and Forty-third infantry, was introduced to an innovation in the form of an indoor designation target, devised by Private William C. E. Bernhardt, formerly a commercial painter, whose family lives at 7430 South Carpenter street, now an enthusiastic member of Company F. The new training property is a landscape target 15 feet long and 3 feet wide, constructed in black and white, and equipped with movable figures representing Boche soldiers. Squads are detailed in barracks to rifle practice on the target. They are required to sight the figures perfectly over the end of a rifle and to judge comparative distances through the movable figures.

Announcement was made that Capt. Laurence H. Whiting, division personnel officer and captain of the Camp Grant football eleven, has been called to the capital to enter the adjutant general's office.

2,500 REPORTED QUAKE VICTIMS IN GUATEMALA

San Salvador, Salvador, Jan. 2.—Newspapers of this city declare that no fewer than 2,500 people lost their lives in the Guatemala earthquake.

Early reports on the Guatemala earthquake, which began Christmas day, declared the loss of life was heavy, some estimates reaching 1,000. A Guatemala City dispatch of Dec. 31, however, said that only a few persons had been killed.

Many persons are going overland from Salvador to Guatemala to investigate the fate of friends. Telegraphic communication between San Salvador and Guatemala is again interrupted.

LONDON HIT BY MEAT SHORTAGE

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Many butcher shops throughout London were without their usual supply of meat today, and some were forced to close. Almost no beef arrived at the Smithfield market, and the scanty stocks were exhausted long before the retailers, who stood in a line from 5 o'clock in the morning until noon, could be supplied. The government relieved the situation somewhat by releasing from its stores 2,000 carcasses of mutton. In the fish market conditions were much the same.

SHRAPNEL

A call for men for the British tanks which led Gen. Haig's drive almost to the gates of Cambrai was issued yesterday by Col. J. S. Dennis, commanding the western division British-Canadian recruiting mission. This is the first opportunity Chicago men have had to fight with the "battle monster." The men needed for the tanks are of various trades, as follows: Acetylene welders, blacksmiths, boilermakers, coppersmiths, draftsmen, electricians, fitters and turners, painters (camouflage), tank drivers, traction drivers and wheelers.

W. M. Roberts, assistant superintendent in charge of evening schools, has announced a course of technical training especially in view of the predicted demand for labor in munitions plants to be established.

This is addressed to Mrs. Frank Smalley, maiden name Miss Molly Foley. An old school chum, William P. Neville, Barracks 2, Public Works, Camp Paul Jones, Great Lakes, has tried to find her and hopes this will serve.

Programs of plays, dances, music, and lectures will be given for the soldiers and sailors free of charge every Sunday afternoon in the soldiers and sailors' restroom at the Northwestern railroad station, Canal and West Madison streets. This was decided at a special meeting of the camp recreation committee of the Drama league, held in the county building yesterday afternoon.

Stewart Waring of Evanston, president of the board of education of that city and a department head of Sears, Roebuck & Co., has quit business, educational work, and a pleasant home to undertake Y. M. C. A. work at Camp Dodge, near Des Moines.

Three hundred women of the Twenty-fifth Ward Council of Defense, comprising exemption districts 54 to 57, inclusive, are expected to attend a patriotic rally for women at the Edgewater Country club at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Mrs. James W. Morrison is to speak. Mrs. Diana Bonnar of the Chicago Grand Opera company will be guest of honor.

Mystery Explosion Shakes Chattanooga After Flash

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 2.—A terrific explosion shook this city early today. The sky was lighted for several seconds and was followed by loud reports which shook buildings.

No definite explanation has been found. A theory that it was a meteor passing through the clouds and dropping somewhere south of the city was advanced, but no traces of it have been discovered.

U. S. HAS TAKEN FULL POWER AT THE SHIPYARDS

Bowles Says Payment and Orders Are from Nation.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Rear Admiral Bowles of the emergency fleet corporation today told the senate investigating committee the government was paying all salaries in the American International Shipbuilding corporation, under its contract, excepting some $150,000 a year.

The admiral cited the Sloane Shipbuilding corporation of Seattle, Wash., as an instance of where the government had taken complete control. The contract, he said, had eliminated Sloane from the company but continued to pay him $10,000 a year instead of $25,000 formerly paid by the company.

"Still drawing $10,000 and yet nothing to do with the company," suggested Senator Nelson.

"Yes," responded the admiral, "just to keep quiet and help us keep things in order. I'll admit it looks like too much but it was driving a bargain in which we had no absolute rights."

Holds a Big Contract.

The Sloane yard, the admiral testified, has a $7,840,000 contract for sixteen wooden ships 3 per cent complete, and the government already has advanced $1,700,000.

The government, he said, insisted on a reorganization of the company in August and forced new accounting methods.

The admiral said the government had taken a $750,000 mortgage on the Sloane plant.

Prices Differ Some.

George S. Radford, manager of the contract division of the emergency fleet corporation, said the cost of the wooden ships in the fleet corporation's program approximates $140 a ton and of steel ships $160 a ton or higher on the east coast and $170 on the west coast.

DIVIDE TEAMS FOR "TRIBUNE" RELAY TRIALS

Directors at Parks Arrange Ice Events for Saturday.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

At a meeting of the committee in charge of THE TRIBUNE playground skating tournament yesterday, teams which will take part in the preliminary trials of the grammar schools and open relays on Saturday were selected to report at certain playgrounds in three sections of the city. Jan. 12 was named as the tentative date for the finals in individual and relay races at Garfield park. It also was agreed that all preliminaries must be held on or before Jan. 9 instead of Jan. 10.

Because of the large number of teams which have entered the relays it would be impossible to run them off in one day in connection with the finals in the individual races. The committee thought it advisable to hold trials in three sections of the city, north, west and south, and permit the first three teams in each class to qualify for the finals.

Rules for Relay Trials.

A centrally located playground in each section was selected and teams and officials named. All will report not later than 2 o'clock on Saturday. The grammar school teams will be composed of six skaters, each to skate one-sixth of a mile. The open relay will be a one mile race, each skater to cover a quarter mile.

Playgrounds of the south side will be represented by the largest number of teams. The squads will be sent through their trials at Buetner playground, Thirty-third street and Wentworth avenue. Twenty-four teams will struggle to break into the finals. The west side will send twenty-one teams to Hamlin playground at West Sixteenth street and South Hamlin avenue. The north side division will be represented by eighteen teams at Waters playground, Wilson and Maplewood avenues.

The committee thought it advisable not to take any chances on the weather and named Jan. 12 as a tentative date for the finals. This point will be taken up at a meeting of the playground directors today at McLaren playground. If the majority favor the date it will be selected definitely.

Snow Blocks Tests.

Because of the heavy fall of snow on Tuesday the directors were unable to clear the ice yesterday to hold preliminary individual tests. The directors and their help worked all day, and some announced the ponds will be ready for the trials today.

Following is the classification of teams and officials for the relay trials on Saturday:

QUITCLAIM BY SPEEDWAY PARK

Record has been made of a quitclaim deed by the Speedway Park association to Edward H. Thomas, treasurer of the Edward Hines Lumber company. A nominal consideration of $1 is named in the deed, which is made subject to existing incumbrances on the property. There is an equity of $55,000 in the property, according to the amount of revenue stamps affixed to the deed.

The park covers an area of about 320 acres extending from Twelfth to Twenty-first streets, and from First to Ninth avenues, in Broadview. The value of $1,000,000. The association bought the $1,00,000. The association bought the land for the park in 1914 from Ogden, Sheldon & Co., E. A. Cummings & Co., and Frederick W. Munson for $279,000, at prices ranging from $350 to $1,750 an acre.

Backers of Mathisen Coming Here for Races

That Oscar Mathisen, European champion, will have plenty of support from his countrymen when he meets Bobby McLean at the Arena on Sunday and Monday nights for the world's skating championship was shown yesterday when 200 requests for tickets were received from out of town fans. Most of the applicants were Norwegians, and indications are they will come to Chicago prepared to wager on the foreigner. Both skaters have settled down to the last lap of training. Arrangements have been made to accommodate 7,000 spectators.

TIE IN SKATING EVENT.

A re-check of the points scored in the Skipper A. C. ice derby at Humboldt park Sunday showed that the Northwest Sportsmen's club and the Norwegian Turners tied for first place with thirteen points each. The Franklin Skating and Athletic club, which was credited with winning the meet with a total of 21 points, is given only 10 points in the revised scoring. The error developed through the counting of points scored by women. These events were not supposed to be included in the team totals.

THE GUMPS—YES, YES, UNCLE BIM, GO ON.

WOMEN TO COMPETE IN TWO CONTESTS AT I. A. C. SWIM TONIGHT

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

With two strong new teams in the running and women's open events scheduled for competition for the first time, the 1918 championship swimming program of the Central A. A. U. will be launched tonight at the Illinois Athletic club. The two new teams are the Chicago Athletic association and the Great Lakes Naval station. The C. A. A. dropped out of swimming as an organized sport during 1917.

The Great Lakes jackies will be making their first bid for natatorial prominence, with such stars as Perry McGillivray, former national sprints champion, of the I. A. C. teams, and Herman Laubis of St. Louis, winner of various distance events, as a nucleus for their team.

Harry Hazlehurst, who coached the Hamilton club swimming teams and built them up to the position of championship contenders in two years, also is an enlisted man at Great Lakes, and is coaching the station swimmers against his old team rivals of the C. A. A. and I. A. C.

Two Events for Women.

The women's events scheduled tonight are the 100 yard swim and 100 yard breast stroke. In the 100 yard race, Miss Amber Meath, who won firsts in various local races in the summer season, is an entrant. Miss Mary Hess will compete under I. A. C. colors. Other contestants will represent the Hamilton club, Sinai social center, Butler house, and the Chicago Hebrew institute. In the women's brease stroke one of the competitors may be Miss Anita McDermott, sister of the national breast stroke champion.

Preliminary and final heats will be held in the fifty and 440 yard championship events. A great field will start the fifty, among the entrants being Capt. Walter Earle of the University of Chicago tank team, Art Raithel, Leslie Jones, and A. Siegel of the I. A. C.; Phil Mallen, Ken Huszagh, and V. Johnson of the C. A. A.; J. Norton and Art Goodyear of the Hamilton club. McDermott will defend his honors in the 200 yard championship breast swim against the pick of the C. A. A.

McGillivray vs. Wallen.

Perry McGillivray will swim in the quarter mile. In that race he and W. L. [Buddie] Wallen will renew their feud for water honors, Wallen competing for the I. A. C., which team he joined after the Hamilton club's squad was split up by enlistments. Wallen is an enlisted man in a different sort of navy service from McGillivray, being enrolled in the merchant marine training branch, which has its headquarters on the Municipal pier. The race should be a great duel between the two top notchers.

Laubis of Great Lakes will swim the mile, his chief rivals being Frank Pickel and Ray White of the Cherry Circle. Wallen is entered for the mile, but intends to devote all his efforts to the competition against McGillivray in the quarter. Following are the entries:

In the Wake of the News

By RING W. LARDNER

PINCH-HITTING FOR BROTHER CHESTERTON.

THE man who runs a column on the editorial page under the caption "A Line of Type or 2" suggested the other day that Mr. G. K. Chesterton write an explanation of the popularity of New Year's as a swear-off date. Mr. Chesterton either didn't read the paper that day or else has been busy knitting. At any rate, he hasn't taken the hint. So, last night, my two-year-old boy called me into his study and said:

"Old pal, you write a great deal like G. K., only better. Why don't you substitute for him in this crisis?"

Well, then, New Year's is the best swear-off date because it saves trouble.

A man, we'll say, gave up cigaret smoking on the twenty-sixth of October. On the third of January another man offered him a cigaret.

"No, thanks," he replies. "I haven't smoked one for—let's see—well, I quit the twenty-sixth of October. Let's see, that's over two months. It's sixty-nine days since I've had a cigaret. No, seventy. That is, today is the seventieth day I've gone without cigarets. I always inhaled, you know. I wouldn't give a dime to smoke if I didn't inhale. But I had to cut it out. You know, I used to smoke forty every day. That's too many cigarets. I cut 'em out. I got to coughing. I coughed all the time. So I cut 'em out. I used to smoke three before breakfast. There's no sense to that, so I cut it out. I haven't had one since October 26. That's two months and, let's see, about eight or nine days."

Whereas, if that same man had waited till last Tuesday to swear off, he could have replied instantly, on the third of January:

"No. I quit. I haven't had one since the first of the year; not for three days. Why don't you cut 'em out, too?"

And the other man could have said, without a moment's hesitation:

"Oh, I don't think they hurt me none."

And the first man could have said, right off:

"Well, maybe you don't smoke 'em like I did. I used to get away with forty a day; three before breakfast. And I inhaled all the time. Maybe you don't inhale. I wouldn't want to smoke if I didn't inhale."

And if that same man who swore off on October 26 were asked on the seventeenth of next June to have a cigaret, he would be up against it proper. It would take him the rest of the month to figure out how much time there is between the twenty-sixth of October and the seventeenth of June.

But if he knows anything at all, he knows that June is the sixth month of the year, and if New Year's was his quitting date, he could say in a flash:

"No, thanks. I haven't smoked since the first of the year. That's pretty near six months; it'll be just six months a week from next Sunday, the fifth Sunday after Trinity. How's that for a record?"

And the other man could remark cordially:

"I'll say it's some record."

Of course, the hero of this story is an extra fine man. If he were common, he would say, long before the seventeenth of June dawned:

"Yes, thanks, I will."

JESS GETS $100,000 OFFER FOR WAR BOUT

Deming, N. M., Jan. 2.—Jess Willard world's champion heavyweight boxer, can turn $100,000 into the coffers of any war fund that will accept it, if he will stage a bout in Turner park, Deming, N. M. P. W. Turner, Deming sportsman and capitalist, has made the champion a flat offer to turn over his check for $100,000 if Willard will agree to fight here. Turner's offer has already been telegraphed to Willard. The offer is made absolutely unconditional, permitting Willard to specify any conditions regarding his opponent, the length of the bout, and the question of risking his title.

Jess Prefers Big City.

Jess Willard last night said he would rather not box in Deming, as the gate receipts in a small town would not warrant staging a match. He believes the "big city" is the place for the bout.

"And, by the way, where's this fellow Fulton?" Willard asked. "I have not heard anything from him. I'm ready to box him for the title."

Chip and Dillon to Box Ten Rounds at Duluth

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 2.—George Chip and Jack Dillon have been matched to box ten rounds here on the night of Jan. 25. State Boxing Commissioner Ribenack has received the signed articles, it was said today. Johnny Noye, St. Paul, will meet Steve Gardner, Duluth, in an elimination contest, the winner to meet Billy Whelan for the Minnesota lightweight title. Chip and Dillon will weigh in at 163 pounds at 3 o'clock while Noye and Gardner will weigh 135 at the same time.

Mandot Sues for $4,000 He Says He Loaned Friend

New Orleans, La., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Joe Mandot of New Orleans, now an army boxing instructor, filed suit today in Civil District court against J. A. Buisson, a lifelong frined, for $4,000. Mandot alleges he loaned the money on a promissory note March 16, 1916, with 6 per cent interest. He claims Buisson won't pay.

Pugilistic Pointers

By Ray Pearson

JACK DEMPSEY, the new heavyweight from San Francisco, and his manager, Jack Kearns, arrived yesterday looking for trouble. Jack wants to get Champion Jess Willard to agree to a match with him, but he won't object to swapping punches with Fred Fulton or any of the other big fellows.

The Rev. F. R. Wedge, the "Fighting Parson," who is a boxing instructor at Camp Grant, was in Chicago last night and today is going to box at the Arcade gym. The parson says it takes boxing to keep in condition and that he overlooks no chance to get into the ring.

Fred Gilmore, who quit the boxing game some little time ago, is going to second Jack White in the latter's bout with Ever Hammer at Gary tomorrow night.

This is a little late, but Doc Krone wants it announced that his protégé, Charlie Hecht, knocked out Battling Sullivan at a downstate club.

NAVY GETS HALAS, ILLINOIS STAR

Great Lakes, Ill., Jan. 2.—The University of Illinois lost one of the best all around athletes it has had in years today when George Halas of Chicago was enlisted for service in the public works department. He is expected to report soon.

Halas probably has earned as many "I's" as any Illinois student of recent years. He starred on the basketball, football, and baseball teams for the last two campaigns, and was captain of this season's basketball team. He received an offer from the White Sox last June, but passed it up to finish school. He was a senior.

Joliet Soccer Players Return from St. Louis

Chicago players on the Joliet soccer team returned yesterday much pleased with the outcome of their two games at St. Louis. Their 4 to 3 victory over the Innisfails on New Year's afternoon was the first scored by a Chicago team over a St. Louis league team in a number of years. The Joliet team's next match will be in the national cup series, in which it will meet the winner of the Cleveland-Detroit match.

Canada's Famous Hockey Rink Destroyed by Fire

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 2.—Averages for the year 1917 have been prepared giving the standing of the trap shooters of the Interstate association, both amateurs and professionals. W. H. Heer of Guthrie, Okla., is high amateur for the year's list of registered shoots, having tried for a total of 2,050 targets, of which he broke 1,997, for a season's per cent of .9741. W. Henderson of Lexington, Ky., is second high amateur in singles shooting, six one-thousandths of a point behind Heer.

In doubles shooting, C. B. Platt led the amateurs with .9307. He shot at 130 targets and made 121 of them. Platt is from Bridgeton, N. J. C. M. Powers of Decatur, Ill., was second in the doubles with .9153. The high professional for the year past was L. S. German of Aberdeen, Md., with .9764 of a possible 1.0000. L. H. Reid, Seattle, Wash., was second with .9722.

Powers High for Illinois.

The high Illinoisan in the amateur standing was C. M. Powers, who placed forty-second, making 5,089 breaks of 5,405 targets for a standing of .9415. E. W. Anderson of Pecatonica, Ill., was forty-fourth and Max Knussel of Ottawa, Ill., forty-seventh. B. S. Donnelley was the high Chicago shooter, getting an average of .9359. J. A. Groves averaged .9346 and P. J. Graham .9257. F. M. Troeh of Vancouver, Wash., who made the biggest runs of years in the 1917 trap season, held sixth place in the official list, breaking 4,150 of 4,290 targets attempted for .9673.

Illinois did well in the professional class, Bart Lewis of Auburn, Ill., placing third, A. H. Ammann of Peotone, seventh, H. C. Kirkwood of La Grange eleventh, and Homer Clark, Alton, sixteenth. Shortly after them, Chicago leaders were bunched. C. E. Goodrich was twenty-first with an average of .9553, derived from 3,831 cracked clays of 4,010 attempted.

The figures are issued by Secretary E. Reed Shaner of the Interstate association. The total number of targets shot at in registered tournaments and total targets scored were gathered for the season. The averages for singles for both amateurs and professionals were based on a minimum of 2,000, according to an Interstate T. A. ruling.

FLOATING BASS FLIES STANDARDIZED.

LAST week Maurice Clark, Fred Peet, Will Dilg, Claude Refner, and ye ed had a little christening party over at the Chicago Athletic association. We named and standardized twelve patterns of the floating bugs. This comparatively new type of bass fly is becoming immensely popular, and it was decided that some system and classification had to be evolved to prevent the endless confusion that attended the tying of bass flies in this country some years ago. The twelve patterns selected will enable tiers to tie them correctly. Here they are:

Zane Gray—Gray body, gray stripes, gray tail, and gray wings.

JOCKEY IN TUMBLE WHICH MAY COST LIFE; HORSE IS DESTROYED

New Orleans, La., Jan. 2.—An accident in the second race today probably will cost the life of Jockey G. Walls, one of the most promising apprentice riders at the local track, if not in the country. Jockey Walls is at the hotel suffering from a fractured skull. Valerie West, his mount in the second race of the card, stumbled and fell. Bogy Johnson, with Sevens Up, fell over Valerie West. The latter suffered a broken foreleg and was destroyed.

L. A. Brodus, owner of Silvey Shapiro, has been fined $50 for entering that horse in a race in which it was not eligible.

Taberski Out in Lead in Pocket Cue Match

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2.—Frank Taberski, world's pocket billiard champion, tonight defeated Ralph Greenleaf in the first block of their match for the title, 156 to 89. Taberski will play the remaining two blocks of the match under protest. He insisted the block was finished when he reached 150 points. Greenleaf produced a rule which showed the block did not conclude until the table was cleared. Taberski finished with two runs of twenty-nine each.

Cochran Averages 100 in Balk Line Tournament

New York, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Welker Cochran made a high average in his game with Morris Brown at Daly's billiard academy this afternoon when he scored 200 points with an average of 100, Brown scored 8 points and averaged 8. In the evening game Gershel defeated Foss by 150 to 144.

AT THE BILLIARD ROOMS.

Burmeister defeated Keith, 34 to 28, in the three cushion tournament at Bensinger's Monroe room.

In the three cushion tournament at Tom Foley's Mann [33] defeated Snow [33], 33 to 31. Dr. Campbell and Howe will play tonight.

Augie Kieckhefer of Mussey's maintained first place in the Chicago league by taking a hard fought match from Ernie Lundgren [42], 57 to 40, at Menk and Reading's room. Kieckhefer ran out with a 3. The game went 89 innings, Kieckhefer having two runs of 4, Lundgren's top mark being a 2. Le Gros and Lord will play tonight at Petersen's.

MEETING MONDAY MAY BRING BALL TRADES TO HEAD

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

For some reason not made known baseball magnates are planning to assemble in Cincinnati next Monday. The occasion for the gathering is the annual meeting of the national commission. But the national commission consists of Garry Herrmann, Ban Johnson, and John K. Tener. It has been customary for years for this trio to meet and elect Herrmann chairman of the body for another year.

It isn't necessary that President Weeghman of the Cubs, President Dreyfuss of the Pirates, President Rickey of the Cardinals, and a lot more club owners be present, for they have nothing to do with the meeting. However, it looks as if about a dozen or more of the sixteen big league clubs will be represented at this commission meeting. None of them has been called, but there seems to be a general feeling in the baseball atmosphere that it would be well to have an informal gathering and talk over plans of conducting baseball under war conditions.

There may be some trading done at the Cincinnati session. Weeghman and Mitchell have agreed to meet the bosses of the St. Louis Cardinals for that purpose. They also expect to meet the boss of the Brooklyns and the boss of the Pirates, and they will carry along the bank roll.

Mitchell and Hendricks Confer.

There was an informal meeting between Manager Mitchell of the Cubs and Manager Hendricks of the Cardinals yesterday. A squad of scribes attended to jot down anything that was said concerning a trade between the two clubs. The two managers talked about a lot of things outside of baseball. Finally one scribe could stand it no longer and burst forth with a question to Hendricks: "Are you fellows ever going to make a trade?"

"Sure I'll trade," answered Hendricks. "I'll give Mitchell Tom Long for Jim Vaughn."

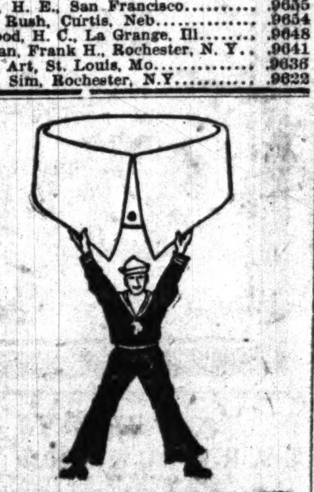

That there may be some sort of trade between Cubs and Cardinals next Monday seemed possible because of interest shown by the Cardinals' leader in the present condition of Larry Doyle and Chuck Wortman. It was deducted that Hendricks thinks awfully well of Wortman and that he believes Doyle as good as they make them providing he has fully recovered from his broken ankle.

Dolan Sees Old Boss.

Cozy Dolan, former big leaguer, but last year a member of the Indianapolis champions led by Jack Hendricks, came to Chicago yesterday from winter quarters in Oshkosh. So far as could be learned he simply came down to congratulate Hendricks on his advent into the big show.

While baseball men were wondering who would be picked to manage the Indianapolis team next season, it was whispered about that Owner McGill from his winter home in California had hinted to a friend he expected to procure Larry Lajoie. McGill said publicly the man he wanted was a former big league star and one who still could play a position.

Lajoie led the Toronto outfit to the pennant last season and was said to have been signed by the Red Sox for next year, but that report apparently was erroneous.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—No, we have not renounced the flounce entirely! Quite a few frocks for southern wear show the dear, delightful ruffles which go with slimness and youth and old porticoed houses. Flounces are, in fact, almost as much of a national anthem as "Dixie." We American women may wander after strange gauds—after panels and moyenage waists and what not—but we always, if we are thin, turn our faces lovingly to the ruffled skirt.

The above frock is not only ruffled, but counter-ruffled. A surprising little movement is created, indeed, by the diagonal course of the maline ruffles beneath the perfectly straight flounces of the printed chiffon velvet overskirt.

In color this little dance frock is altogether charming. Gray is the sheath-like satin underskirt; gray are the maline ruffles, and both the bodice and its skirt are the same soft tone printed in a most beautiful shade of rose. Just a lovely little bit of the dawn brought down for the special convenience of Miss One and Twenty!

On Bread Alone.

The Greek in his warm peninsula may live on raisins, the Eskimo in his cold north on oil, but in the temperate zone the one most palatable and most accustomed, and probably the most efficient food for all ages above babyhood, is good white flour bread. It is temperate, not violent or slow energy, almost wholly, and nine-tenths of our eating need is to supply energy.

Incessant activity of muscle, whether of heart or digestive canal or limb, is probably more equitably maintained on a food like good white or corn bread than on any other one food. When we have milk, vegetables, fruit, and butter we can spare the wheat husk. Children or families who have none of these things and live in dark, unventilated tenements, can make better digestive use of white bread than of any other.

It seems almost wicked to me to give a dinner of the sort to which the prosperous are accustomed to people living on a starvation base, when the money spent for it would supply them with food for a week or two, and food far better than that to which they are accustomed. They seldom have equipment for a real meal.

On a diet of white bread alone, without butter or other fat, men live and work and children exist. The red card of quarantine is probably seen less often on back tenement doors than on prosperous streets. Children living in these tenements are apparently less subject to transitory diseases than the better fed. They do not suffer many kinds of digestive wears and tears. People who work among the poor tell of extraordinary cases where large families live on bread and coffee alone.

Heaven has recently sent me an opportunity to know first hand part of the effect of such a diet on growing children, ten of them, or, rather, on children trying to grow and only half succeeding. It will be a part of my winter's work to see how I can gently build from such a diet, supplying mostly such foods as no great advance in prosperity would enable them to secure for themselves, but adequate for maintenance.

The world must have a more fundamental idea of what food is. In living up to the high level of helpfulness that the times demand we must get all we can out of the benevolent dollar. We shall be more intelligent in helping "over there" if we learn by experiences here at home how best to feed those to whom war conditions are bringing almost as precarious an existence as though they were on European soil.

My adopted responsibility are the children of a man working in a bake shop, which is keeping but an uncertain and half time business. I literally found them through a pathetic circumstance, but part of the exaltation my visits bring me, perhaps, comes from the fact that the harassed mother can cook. She had made the loaf baked on the oven bottom, half of which was all that remained when I first went to that back tenement, and it had been made of the last flour. Five little ones were gnawing at a crust.

A few days before I had seen a mother pay 65 cents to cover the cost of two sundaes, with heavy sirups, and a third heavy sweet which her velvet and fur clad but stunted little daughter had consumed. I felt as though I was in some strange, grotesque land when I saw that selfish and greedy little bear. A diet of bread alone would save her from the ill health she faces.

That 65 cents would buy almost six pounds of pinto beans, or more energy and some growing material for that back tenement family for all of them for the whole day than they have been getting. And the mother cooks them beautifully, each taking his turn at the one plate while she tells me, "Nice, nice!"

The world seems wonderfully beautiful and sweet when 65 cents makes for so much cheerfulness.

My little nephew came to our house with his mother and father to spend a few days and he was so excited with the novelty of a visit that he always arose bright and early each morning. That was always the most lonesome time for him, and so one morning when mother was making the coffee he went upstairs and got a hold of his father's ears and whispered, "Daddy, daddy, don't you smell dat toffee tookin'?" "I'm afraid Mr. Hoover would object to so much, this year," said mother.

Larry looked over his list thoughtfully. "Well, if Hoover's goin' to boss Santa Claus, too, just write for the gun, sled, drum, an' skates an' we'll do without the other things." A. H.

"Well, what do you do?" the tough guy in the poker game said to his mother's boy. With reproachful eyes the latter replied:

"Why, you know what I do. I work in the oil wells." And, sad eyed, he a moment later objected to his cards because none of them were mates. You have surmised that before this his mother's boy had never played poker and you are right. He "set in" because he was set in. Banty Jones, ruffian hero of Centipede, had been pleased to bear him thither on his shoulders, calmly ignoring all protestations, vocal and anatomical.

"His Mother's Boy" was not a native of Centipede. On the contrary, he had but just arrived from a quiet New England village where for the not too many years of his life he had been babied by his widowed mother. The two of them might uneventfully have meandered through life had not fate upset things by apparently proving that the deceased father had swindled many of the villagers by persuading them to invest in a certain oil well—in Centipede—which suddenly had stopped producing and therefore caused a cessation of dividends.

"I'm going to find out what's the trouble," the sad eyed son declared, and, in spite of his mother's pleadings—Centipede it was. But, O, once there, what would not his mother's boy have given to be safe back in mamma's old fashioned garden, where the only speedy things were the red ramblers and the only "licker" in sight came through the hose! Centipede might nigh got the goat of his mother's boy!

Only it didn't. There was real stuff beneath the cotton wool of diffidence packed so closely by motherly solicitude. His mother's boy, after batting awkwardly and timidly about, comes into his own, puts to flight his would-be undoers, proves dad was on the square, and wins the girl of his choice.

The facility with which Mr. Ray can transform his graceful and well groomed self into a coltish yap all wristbones and ankle joints is a source of never failing wonder to me. In this picture he has a characterization much on the order of that depicted in "The Clodhopper." If you cared for that you will be fond of this. Certainly it was greeted with hilarious approval by the noontime audience of a loop theater.

Mr. Ray has this time a Mabel Taliferro-like leading woman with a cunning fluted mouth and a lot of hair a bit messily arranged. The support is most adequate.

A Class of Her Own.

I taught a year of kindergarten after I left high school. The work of the children frayed my nerves and by June I was almost a nervous wreck. My income was not sufficient to permit me to have a real vacation, but a rest was imperative, so I hied me to a little old maid aunt out in the country, in answer to a long standing invitation.

Fussy about her work, she wouldn't let me touch a thing, but sent me out for long walks down the quiet country roads. I never knew before the message of health that Nature brings, but it wasn't a week before I found myself skipping along with the exuberance of youth. One day I wandered far and away, lured by the glimmering of water and the soft dusk of a green woods. When I reached the bank I was sore tempted for the water was shallow. Yielding, I removed my slippers and in a moment was gleefully wading up the stream.

I was blissfully happy, but when I turned the bend I nearly died of fright for encamped almost on the water's edge were numerous tramp-like individuals, boiling coffee in an old pot over some fire between bricks. My one instinct was for flight, and I turned and flew, holding up my skirts with one hand and trying to dignify my flying curls with the other. Splashy footsteps followed, and when a hand fell on my shoulder I was almost paralyzed with fear, but when a laughing voice called me a "little girl" and bade me stay and eat, I knew my bungalow apron and fallen hair had conveyed the impression that I was only a child.

So with what courage I could muster I permitted myself to be led back to the fire. The fish was well fried and the coffee good, but my heart did not resume its normal beat until I was safe under the little sloping ceiling of my aunt's sitting room.

My summer of leisure served to send me back to my school fresh with the glow of health and bright with the joy of living. We had a new principal and I had heard that he was a college graduate, boyish and irrepressible, but with a personality calculated to win young folks. I was dubious, but when I met him in the corridor my world went blank, for he was my tramp friend of the river bank.

After mutual recognition, he explained how he and some of his college friends had spent the summer "close to Nature," and we swore eternal secrecy. But today he said I might tell, for a whole decade of years have passed. He is still my principal, and I still teach kindergarten. I have a little class of three, and they are all our own. T. L.

Her Greasy Skin Spoiled the Whole Dainty Picture!

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

WAS IT YOU?

Coming down on the car yesterday a young woman sat across from me. Um, my! But she had a pretty taupe hat on and a scrumptious set of mole furs, and gray shoes—suede and new—and her foot was the kind for which gray suede shoes were designed, so pretty it was. Well, every male present gave her a "flash," as an exuberant youth I know calls it.

She lifted her flowing, dangerously widowish veil, and O, dear, her skin was so greasy! I never did see such greasy skin. It just smudged up the whole picture—even the dainty gray suede shoes.

Now, if she'd only keep a bottle of alcohol and some absorbent cotton on her dresser and wipe her face off three or four times a day with it and eat sparingly of porks and candy and highly seasoned foods she would be 100 per cent perfect.

CHILDREN NEED FOOD NOT ALCOHOL.

How careless it is to accept alcoholic medicines for children when their whole health and growth depends on correct nourishment. It is the rich liquid-food in that gives growing children the stimulus they need to make richer blood and greater strength to resist colds and school sickness. They get food in Scott's Emulsion—not alcohol.

The imported Norwegian cod liver oil used in Scott's Emulsion is now refined in our own American laboratories which guarantees it free from impurities.

If your little one's tongue is coated it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

Astor Street Is Spoon River's Path for an Afternoon

BY CINDERELLA.

Edgar Lee Masters spoke on "Modern Poetry" yesterday afternoon in the drawing room of Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift Jr. The occasion was an open meeting of the Junior Fortnightly, the house the lovely Gothic one in Astor street.

It's wonderful how cheerful these stone interiors are! What with roaring log fires in the great halls, ancient needlework hangings beautiful as dreams, and tapestries from Flanders, perhaps, however, cheerfulness is no wonder after all.

Mrs. Swift received in a short frock of black velvet, with a sealskin collar and a broad black hat, somberly becoming to her fairness. Everybody sat in the west room snugly curtained with old red and gold brocaded Genoa hangings, while the west wind racketed without.

Mr. Masters began by ascribing free verse to politics, one of the hardest things ever said about politics, by the way, and the political upheavals in the early '70s. He said that all the tragedy and comedy of life lay in every part of this country. It was not desirable to go abroad for plots.

The first free verse of the Verlaine school was laid at the door of Socialists, weary of the Alfred de Musset and Tennyson, and "sonnet to a sonnet, to a sonnet," school.

Well, anyway, it was all well over my head, not being a poet, for which praise be!

And then Mr. Masters read from a new unpublished book of verse. And here he did not quite preach as he practices, did he? For after telling us to stay in Illinois for our little plots and counter plots, our premier poet skips clear over to St. Helena and back a hundred years to two aids of Napoleon, who talk politics of those days.

And I do believe he said the tango had influenced latter day free blank versifiers somewhat.

A very animated tea was served later on. Among the out of town women there were Mrs. Maurice Froemkes, wife of the portrait painter, and Mrs. Crane Chadbourne. Mrs. Laurance Armour was another, almost a stranger, as she has been staying in Washington all the early part of the winter with her husband, awaiting his orders for active service in the remount department. Mrs. Armour is a very lovely person, slim and tall, and the little hat she was wearing, flecked with gold, sat on her golden hair like a little crown, and made her look rather Russian, what with silver fox wrappings, etc.

Every Watch but the One on the Rhine

BY LOUISE JAMES BARGELT.

Gunsaulus hall, in the Art institute, is always an interesting spot in the diversity of its exhibits. Now we may see a new collection of Maj. Chamberlain, a display of watches and watchworks he has been collecting for a long time.

Watches big, watches small, watches that make musical record of the passing hours, and watches as thick and awkward as others are thin and delicate make up an exhibit of decided interest.

Maj. Chamberlain is now in the United States service, stationed in the east. His fame as a collector of watchwords has long been established.

We now have a children's corner really started at the Art institute. This long cherished idea of the museum to have a real children's spot has been taken up by Mrs. John Buckingham, president of the Public School Art society. She has given $50 towards its furnishing.

Some dolls have already been contributed and the Art institute has loaned a few statuettes and other interesting objects, until the exhibition can assume larger proportions.

CLUB NOTES

One hundred years in the history of Illinois were celebrated yesterday in the centennial program given at the Chicago Woman's club. Former Gov. Edward F. Dunne traced the history of the state from the early days to the present.

"Illinois will be loyal to the end," he said, "and, although there will be crape upon the doors of some of you women I am addressing, and although as the months of this war pass the burden of war taxation will become tremendous, we shall be loyal. This war must be prosecuted to a successful issue in order to insure to neutrals their right to the high seas."

Judge E. O. Brown quoted the words of Stephen A. Douglas at the time of the civil war, "In this war there can be no neutrals—only patriots and traitors."

In room 806 of the city hall are prosecuted violations of compulsory education law, every Tuesday morning; violations of health and sanitary laws, every Wednesday afternoon; violations of factory laws, every Thursday afternoon.

These sessions are being attended by representatives of the legislative committee of the Woman's City club—Mrs. T. P. Cooper, Mrs. James Forstall, Mrs. George Whitsett, and the secretary of the committee.

The Renaissance club, of which Mrs. Joseph P. Birren is president, will meet in Fullerton hall, Art institute, at 2 p. m. on Monday.

Ah! Pain is gone!

Rub this soothing, penetrating oil right on your painful back, and like magic, relief comes. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless backache, lumbago and sciatica liniment, and doesn't burn the skin.

Straighten up! Quit complaining! Stop those torturous "stitches." In a moment you will forget that you ever had a weak back, because it won't hurt or be stiff or lame. Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from your druggist now and get this lasting relief.—Advt.

WOMEN IN WARTIME

It won't be pleasant, but the woman's committee says it has to be done. Every woman who has a coal pile in the basement must see to it that that coal pile lasts as long as possible, even if she has to take to stoking the furnace herself. Miss Sarah B. Tunnicliff, who is the woman's committee representative of the state fuel administration, said yesterday that in no other way could the housewives of the city so effectively aid in the conservation of fuel.

A text book on stoking has been issued and will be sent out soon to chairmen of woman's committee units all over the city and state with the following plea:

"Will you as chairman or member of your ward, county, or township mittee, give your assitance in carrying out the following program. Things to do:

"Consult the fuel conservator or chairman of the fuel administration of your county for the plan and coordination of the work.

"Urge the use of wood, and oil, and other substitutes for coal wherever it is possible.

"Help to enforce the government order in regard to economy in use of electric lights, both indoors and outdoors. Coöperate with the fuel conservator in helping to enforce lightless Thursdays and Sundays.

The tag day for coal shovels referred to will require that every shovel in the city shall be tagged by some school child with the hints on fuel conservation issued by the state board.

Mrs. Benjamin Lathrop of the American Fund for French Wounded has just returned from several years' work in France and will be the guest of honor at a reception to be given for her at the Fortnightly club on Jan. 8. Mrs. Lathrop will also receive her friends next Wednesday between 12 and 1 p. m. at the American Fund shop on the third floor of number 60 East Washington street.

"Can you not help us by sending us gauze from time to time," is the plea of Mrs. Gertrude Austin, chairman of the national surgical dressings committee of the Red Cross in France, sent in a letter of gratitude to the Illinois branch of the surgical dressings and just received here.

"It has been a struggle to keep our work going . . . Of course, an absorbent used once is of no further use, but the gauze famine is such that hospitals wash, sterilize, and use over again until the gauze is absolutely washed away."

A war meeting convention, the purpose of which will be to sum up the work which has been done in the state by the woman's committee, will be held Jan. 14 and 15. Samuel Insull will address the convention.

Brainerd auxiliary, No. 310, of the Red Cross announces an even stronger organization for 1918 than it has had during the last year, and invites all the women of the community to join in the work. The meetings are held every Tuesday and Friday at the Brainerd school and on Monday evenings at the residence of Mrs. John A. Maxwell, 8824 Loomis street.

65 Teachers to Be Pupils with Horses as Books

Sixty-five teachers of the Lane Technical High school will forget their Latin, their mechanical drawing, and their shop courses today and will learn how to feed a horse, harness it, drive it, and care for it. W. J. Bogan, principal of the school, will begin a three days' "short horn" course in agriculture for the instructors. The object is to teach the teachers agriculture, so that they may teach the students who will go to the farms in April.

Perry Holden of the International Harvester company will be in charge of the institute, which will last three days. Experts from the Iowa State college, from the University of Wisconsin, and from the International Harvester company will conduct the classes.

Mr. Bogan intended to have a number of cows so that the teachers could learn to milk, but he has not been able to get them. He expects to have the cows within a few weeks, however, and every Lane boy who goes to the farm for the summer will be able to milk.

Arrangements have been made with Oscar Mayer for the use of horses. The packing concern has a barn near the Lane school. Other firms have offered the use of horses when the instruction for the boys begins. A barn has been rented for the horses and cattle. The International Harvester company will furnish farm machinery, which will be placed in a garage built on the school grounds.

The agricultural work will start Monday, when the schools open after the Christmas vacation.

OF THE TROUBADOURS

Miss Raisa and Mr. Crimi, with their associates of the preceding performances, again went earnestly through "Isabeau" last night, and came out of the performance without having added to the reasons why the opera should be a permanent item in the répertoire.

Of more importance in all ways is that Raisa and Crimi will tonight rejoin Mr. Rimini, Mme. Berat, and their numerous companions of this season's revival for another performance of "The Jewels of the Madonna." As they do it, Wolf-Ferrari's opera is live and virile, and pays back the cost of a ticket for any part of the Auditorium. Miss Vix continues unable to appear; and "Sapho," which was scheduled for tonight, now appears as Thursday's bill in next week's list.

Eddy Brown and Arthur Alexander gave a good entertainment yesterday morning for the fourth of Miss Kinsolving's musicals. The former, who has gained in poise and style since his first appearance with the Chicago Symphony, played delightfully a number of small compositions for the violin. Mr. Alexander repeated the well-bred specialty in which he was heard a year ago; and it fitted admirably into Miss Kinsolving's scheme. His light tenor was used musically and with taste in songs mostly good, to his own well-done accompaniments.

Frances Ingram took her rich, resonant contralto and her knowledge of how to sing with it to the Ziegfeld, and put both to lovely use in a bill of good, fair, and bad songs. Among the good ones was Edward C. Moore's "The Land of Heart's Desire." F. D.

THEATERS.

Those who crave entertainment at the hands of Messrs. Kolb and Dill, noteworthy comedians of San Francisco, may have their hunger gratified these nights and matinées at the Olympic theater, where "The High Cost of Loving" is the show.

Never heard of Kolb and Dill? They mean much to the drama of the far west! Mr. Kolb, the star, is a lank and nimble harlequin whose successful aim it is to fall with vigor upon each and every particle of his exterior anatomy during the performance of the play. Mr. Dill is his globular foil, cutting in now and then with a comic remark.

For this visit they have revived an old farce which Lew Fields used to play. It is about four elderly social reformers engaged in paying hush money to a thrifty chorus maid. In youthful days of indiscretion each has been her host at luncheon; and each is accused of being the father of her child.

Singing girls are employed to aid this delicate recital, and the hit of the music is a sentimental vesper entitled "A Baby's Prayer at Twilight." A young woman named Lucille Chalfant exercises a clear and lusty voice on several florid arias, and others render popular selections from the Woolworth windows. The performers are all equal to their jobs, especially James Liddy, a humorous youth. But most cheerful to the large and highly pleased audiences are the generous and amusing acrobatics of Mr. Kolb. To offset any patriotic exasperation that might result from the German patois in which the piece is spoken an American flag is conspicuous among the scenery.

Uncertainties of transportation lead the Messrs. Shubert to postpone the first performance of "Maytime" at the Studebaker from Monday to Tuesday evening. "The Very Idea," however, will begin as scheduled on Monday night at the Garrick. P. H.

OBITUARY.

P. J. Sheridan, Who Saved Parnell, Dies in Colorado

Denver, Colo., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—P. J. Sheridan, who came to America after having been released from prison in Ireland simultaneously with Charles Stewart Parnell, who was acquitted of charges of conspiracy in 1890, died in Monte Vista, Colo., on Monday.

While the London Times, in the name of the British government, was conducting the trial against Parnell, special agents visited Sheridan to get from him papers involving Parnell. He refused and forwarded code messages passed between Scotland Yard and the Times. These were read in court and resulted in Parnell's acquittal.

PAY INCOME TAX ON EARNINGS OF ENTIRE '17 YEAR

Recent Law Retroactive; All Employers Paying $800 Must File.

This is the second of a series of articles concerning the workings of the income tax laws of 1916 and 1917 in their direct relation to the individual. These articles have been prepared with the assistance and advice of two of the leading income tax authorities of Washington, D. C.

BY I. A. FLEMING.

Every person paying $800 a year or more to another must make a report of such payment to the internal revenue collector.

Gross income includes salaries, wages and gains from professions, vocations, business, trade, and commerce; gains and profits from sales in or growing out of ownership or use of property, real or personal; compensation for personal services; income from interest, rent, dividends, securities, transactions of any business carried on for gain or profit, gains, profits, and, in fact, income derived from any source whatever.

Excluded in Gross Income.

Premium returned to the insured under life endowment, annuity contracts.

Interest on the obligations a state or any political subdivision thereof, and of the United States, after Sept. 1, 1917, only if and to the extent provided in the act authorizing the issue thereof. The first issue of Liberty bonds carries only the inheritance tax and the second Liberty loan bonds carry the surtax and the inheritance tax, and are tax free up to the income on $5,000 bonds, other laws then regulating the surtax.

Must Not Be Scheduled.

Income is to be reported on the basis of actual receipts and disbursements. A promissory note accepted in payment of an obligation is treated as cash.

Easter offerings and fees received by clergymen for funerals, marriages, baptisms, masses, etc., are regarded as income.

Christmas gifts are not regarded as income. However, bonuses given in return for "services rendered" or as a stimulant to energetic future services have been held to be taxable as income.

Based on Cost Price.

The act of Sept. 8, 1916, provides:

"For the purpose of ascertaining the gain derived from the sale or other disposition of property, real, personal, or mixed, acquired before March 1, 1913, the fair market price or value shall be based as of March 1, . . . and this value shall be the basis for determining the amount of such gain derived. After March 1, 1913, on all property sold, traded, etc., gain is to be based on cost price."

Where property that has been acquired by gift, descent, devise, or bequest is subsequently sold at a price greater than the appraised value at the time the property was acquired, or, if acquired before March 1, 1913, the fair market value at that date is the basis for computing the gain, which is taxable.

No Account of Fluctuations.

No account is taken for the purposes of the income tax of fluctuations in market values or book values of securities or other property, but gain or loss is counted on a completed transaction on the basis of price consideration.

The cost of improvements made by a tenant as part payment of rent is to be added to rent as income of the landlord.

Partnerships as such are not required to make income tax returns, except when requested, but each partner shall report his share of the profits therein, whether distributed or not.

Same laws relate to nonreporting of interest on obligations held of any state or government bonds other than the second Liberty 4s.

Must Report Dividends.

DEATH BY GAS ACCIDENTAL.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury which held an inquest into the death of John Klin, 617 West Eighteenth street, who was asphyxiated by gas early yesterday morning.

REMODEL WING OF FEDERAL BLDG. FOR TAX WORKERS

One whole wing in the federal building is being turned over to income tax work and carpenters are busy with saws and hammers remodelling the offices. They attacked the place yesterday like a circus crew putting up a big top.

Q.—I am divorced from my husband and get $200 a month allmony. Am I taxed on my allmony, and how much? A.—Allmony is not taxable as income. Your husband, who earned it, must render the tax on that money as a part of his income. If you paid a tax the same money would be taxed twice.

Q.—I am married, but do not live with my wife, though I support her. Am I a married man in the eyes of the law? A.—Yes. You must pay an income tax on all over $2,000, but you have an added exemption of $200 for each dependent child.

Q.—I have invested $1,200 in a stock that is falling. Am I allowed any deduction on my income for the loss? A.—No.

Q.—I took a flyer in stocks last spring that netted me $400 profit. A little later a second plunge lost me $500. Must I pay an income tax on the $400? Or can I deduct $100, my actual loss, from my total income? A.—You are permitted to show a $400 loss to counterbalance the $400 profit. But you cannot show the $100 actual loss.

Q.—I am a city policeman, unmarried, and make $1,320 a year. What is my income tax? A.—None. Policemen, firemen, school teachers, school janitors—in fact, state, county, and city employes—are exempt and have no income tax to pay.

Q.—I invested $2,500 out of my profits last year in Liberty bonds. Do I have to pay an income tax on my Liberty bonds? A.—What you do with your money after you get it does not affect your income. You will have to pay income tax on the $2,500.

Q.—I am a government employé, with an outside income. How must I figure my income tax? A.—Your salary plus your other income. The salary of a government employé is not exempt. If you were a state, county, or city employé, you would have to pay income tax on your outside income only, over $1,000 if single and $2,000 if married.

OLD DOC J. G. GILL IS ARRESTED ON VICTIM'S CHARGE

Old Doc John G. Gill, long recognized as one of the brightest stars in the constellation of quacks, was arrested yesterday. Vengeance came to Doc Gill in the form of Frank Serek, 4332 West North avenue, one of his victims.

In swearing out the warrant for Gill the victim recounted the story of his adventure in Quackland. He had suffered for a long time, he said, with rheumatism. Finally he read an advertisement of "Dr. White, 11 West Randolph street."

There he met the supposed Dr. White, who charged him $5 for an examination and $100 more for a "guaranteed cure." Doc White agreed to give him the guarantee in writing. Then he "shot him in the arm."

Dr. White Vanishes.

Serek thinks it was morphine. Anyway, the pain went away for about an hour. Three or four times he returned. Another "shot in the arm" was the total end of the "treatment" each time. Then Dr. White vanished and was seen no more. In his stead Serek found Doc Gill.

When the offices of "Dr. White, Specialist," were raided yesterday by Detective Sergeants James Burke and Paul Bolum, they found Old Doc Gill there and also John Orthman, 2918 Diversey avenue, his "come on" man. Orthman used to be assistant to Old Doc Burgess, who was also arrested the other day.

Doc Gill was held by Judge Newcomer yesterday on a charge of running a confidence game. He was freed on bail of $1,500.

Two warrants were sworn out for White, but he could not be found.

X-Ray Camouflage.

When the detectives got to digging around in Doc Gill's affairs yesterday they found his fraud shop was "all front and no back." The X-ray room, as a sample, looked fine from the outside. It had a neat sign painted on the door. White paint gave the atmosphere of a hospital or operating room. But inside—all was vacant!

Similar deception was carried on behind a door marked "Consultation room" and one labeled "Laboratory." Half of the offices, which occupied an entire floor, were empty. In the corner of one was a heap of trash.

While the detectives were looking the place over four visitors arrived, two of them victims and the other two representatives of commercial houses dealing with quacks. As the warrant only called for the arrest of Gill, his doorman, Orthman, was left in charge.

He Is Optimistic.

"If any patients come," quoth Old Doc Gill, with dignity, as the detectives took him away, "tell them to wait, that I will be back in a short time."

Gill denied that he knew "Dr. White's" first name or where he comes from or who he is. Dr. White, under whose name he operated, as "Dr. White, Specialist," is alleged to be one of the big chiefs of the medical quack syndicate.

White is believed to go from city to city "setting up" callous conscienced medical shysters, in "business." He is the financial head. He puts up the money for the start and "splits" with the quacks after they have "treated" the suckers.

Gill Has Diploma.

Gill has on his wall a nicely framed diploma to show that he was graduated from Rush Medical with the class of '97. Also he has a sign which shows that an auxiliary of the Dr. White quackshop is the "Glucosa Medical company."

Letterheads found by the operatives show that Dr. John G. Gill, erstwhile pal of Doc Burgess and partner of the William brothers' band, used to office at 81 South Clark street.

DR. BLUNT, AGED DRUG SELLER, TO SERVE 5 YEARS

Court Assails Doctor Who Put Himself Above Law.

"I cannot think that the people of Illinois want to see me die in prison," pleaded Dr. Arthur L. Blunt, 65 years old, "dope seller," as he stood before Federal Judge Evan Evans yesterday. Then the doctor, with snowy hair and white pointed beard, dropped into a chair.

"Arise, Dr. Blunt, and receive your sentence," said the court. Dr. Blunt stood with bowed head. Judge Evans said:

"On each of twelve counts upon which you have been found guilty I sentence you to five years in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth and in addition, on each of the twelve counts, you will pay $1,000 fine. But I shall permit your prison terms to run concurrently."

Must Serve Five Years.

This means that Dr. Blunt's term is, in effect, one sentence of five years. In passing sentence, Judge Evans remarked:

"This court is of the opinion that few laws have ever been passed that have had as their object a higher aim or purpose than the Harrison anti-narcotic act. When the law was passed the responsibility fell upon the doctors and druggists. They have obeyed the law with few exceptions. You have been one of these."

Counsel Pleads in Vain.

Hope Thompson, attorney for Dr. Blunt, in the belief that five years in a federal prison is equivalent to a life sentence, pleaded with the court and asked release on bond.

"This man has believed himself above the law," said the judge. "When he was convicted more than eighteen months ago he immediately procured bond and appealed the case and then returned to the illegal practices for which he was convicted. In three months he sold 25,000 prescriptions for drugs and distributed pamphlets attacking a law that the Supreme court of the United States had found sound. For these reasons I must deny him bail."

SEPTEMBER MORN POSES ON PORCH LEAD TO COURT

If a woman takes a sudden dislike to a certain neighborhood and apartment building wherein her husband has recently settled their worldly belongings, should she air her grievance to the public by sitting in the simple attire of Eve on the rear porch? And if she has committed this alleged indiscretion, should her husband be granted a divorce?

Such were the questions presented to Judge Joseph H. Fitch of the Superior court yesterday. There came before the chancellor Police Lieutenant Augustus Martin White, who "had quite a bit to say" at the Healey trial; and his wife, Mrs. Mary F. White.

"And two years ago, when I rented an apartment on the north side, Mrs. White said she didn't want to live with a lot of Germans," testified Lieut. White. "So for three solid weeks she sat out on the back porch dressed as Eve."

The hearing will be continued this morning.

Pick Jurors for Stein Pay Roll Murder Trial

Four jurors were obtained in Judge John J. Sullivan's court yesterday for the trial of William Wilson, Joseph Quinn, and William Marks, who are charged with the murder of John Byrne, an employé of A. Stein & Co., during a pay roll robbery last May.

HEALEY DEFENSE WITNESS PROVES TO BE BOOMERANG

Costello's Story in Part Corroborated by Sergeant.

Mrs. Walter C. Hedrick, daughter of former Chief of Police Charles C. Healey, yesterday took the witness stand in Judge Joseph Sabath's court in defense of her father, on trial for alleged police grafting. Her testimony was used to contradict one of the alleged tapped wire telephone conversations between the former chief and Thomas Costello, admitted member of the police graft collection syndicate.

Besides Mrs. Hedrick, her husband, Walter C. Hedrick, former Ald. Robert M. Buck, and a half dozen policemen were called by the defense to impeach the Costello story of police graft and intrigue. The testimony of two of the policemen proved rather a boomerang for the defense, and the state got some satisfaction from the cross-examination admissions of other witnesses.

Mrs. Hedrick and her husband testified that Mr. and Mrs. Healey spent New Year's day, 1917, at their residence, 6153 University avenue, and did not leave until after 7 o'clock in the evening. Costello had testified that he met the former chief in his city hall office at 7 o'clock that evening.

Boomerang Testimony.

Detective Sergeants George O'Connor, former head of the chief's gambling detail, and William O. Freeman were the men who gave evidence favoring the prosecution quite as much as the defense.

O'Connor, after testifying that the chief had never ordered him to do other than his full duty, swore that Mr. Healey instructed him to place policemen in two gambling places at 1227 and 1343 South Kedzie avenue, to stop the games and then ordered the removal of the policemen five minutes after Circuit Court Clerk August Miller had visited the chief's office. O'Connor's testimony came after a memory refreshing process at the hands of Judge-elect Frank Johnston Jr., in charge of the prosecution. O'Connor's final statement bore out testimony of Costello.

On re-direct examination Detective O'Connor said the former chief later told him that Mr. Miller had stated that the men who conducted the cigar store and restaurant on Kedzie avenue were going to obey all the laws and ordinances.

Sergt. William O. Freeman contradicted Costello's statement that he had been sent to the Lake street police station by Mr. Healey to watch Capt. Danner and Lieut. Hartford. He testified that he was transferred to the station before either of the commanding officers. The story of his transfer from the station, however, fits with the Costello version.

Buck Hits Costello Charges.

The hardest blow dealt to the Costello evidence was given by former Ald. Robert M. Buck. He testified that the affidavit made by Costello naming Buck as a participant with Costello and others in west side levee resort earnings was false. He declared that he had never met Costello until long after the time Costello names as the period during which Buck received levee profits.

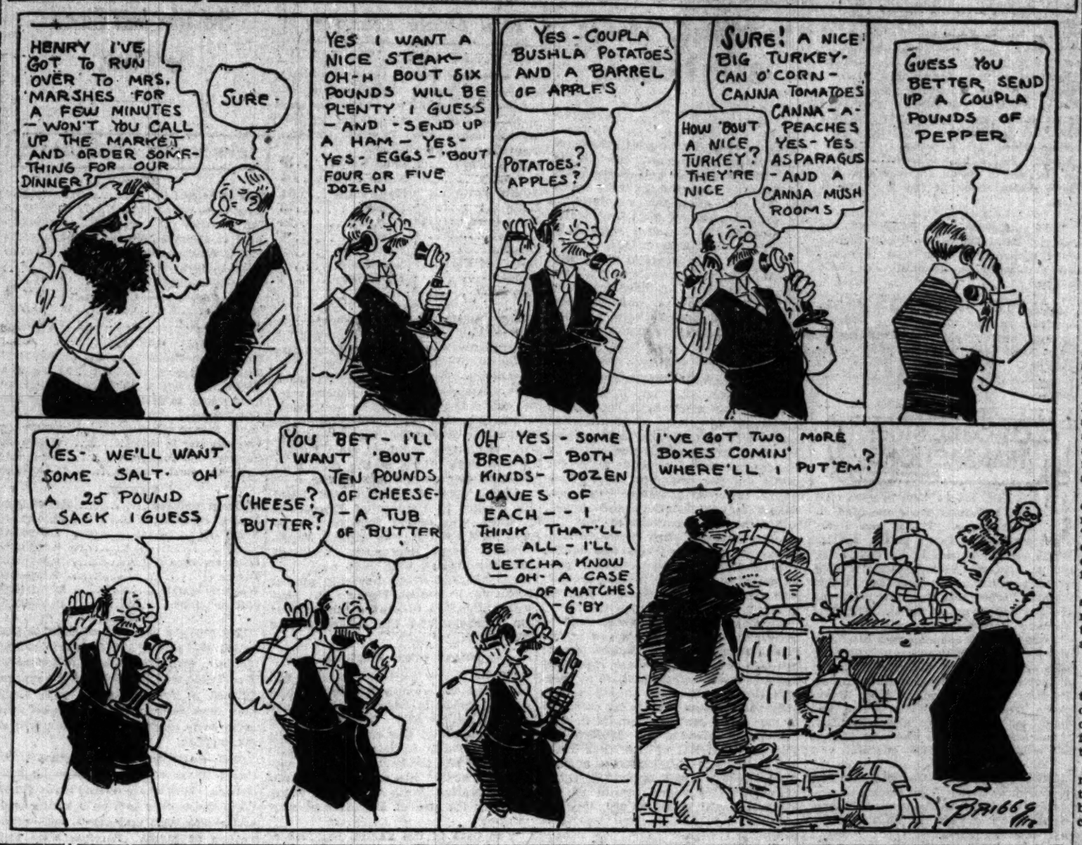

Mr. Buck was questioned in detail concerning the $50,000 libel suit he instituted against Mayor Thompson and others after the mayor had made public the contents of the affidavit attacking Mr. Buck's character. The witness said, on cross-examination, that he had never heard, until Mr. Healey testified, that the former chief had sent Costello to the mayor.

He indicated that had he known this fact when he filed his damage suit he would have made the former chief a party defendant. He told the story of the fake business men's association along similar lines as recited by Costello, except that Mr. Buck denied his own connection with it. Mr. Buck denied he had ever promised Costello and Ben Hyman gambling privileges in case of the election of former Ald. Charles E. Merriam as mayor.

$50 FINE FOR BLIND PIG.

Mrs. John Chocholowski of 1097 Dodge avenue, Evanston, was fined $50 and costs on a charge of running a blind pig by Justice Horace Bent of Evanston yesterday. A similar charge against her husband was dismissed.

A HANDY MAN AROUND THE HOUSE

ONE FLOP OF DICE GIVES 'SHAUNEEN' DECENT BURIAL

Undertaker Wins Price of Hearse from O'Malley.

One flop of the dice and the body of "Shauneen" Collins was saved from the dissecting table.

Louis Cohen of the Central Undertaking company shook the box and rolled out a pair of fives. He would have taken the price of a nickel flop for his chance of winning.

Pat O'Malley, Clark street saloonkeeper, gathered up the cubes off the bar and tossed them in the box. He spilled the ivories, and all that showed was a pair of trays.

O'Malley Pays $5.

Collins, who was night clerk in a nickel flop at 422 South Clark street, died several days ago. For many years he had befriended denizens of the underworld, and a collection was started among them to pay for his funeral.

"Box Car" Hogan, who took it upon himself to collect the nickels and dimes, told the police that he was held up and robbed of $1.30. The police say he spent the money for liquor.

Last Sunday Mrs. Charles H. Weston, 626 Belden avenue, telephoned THE TRIBUNE that she would give a grave in Arlington cemetery in which to bury Collins.

Cohen, the undertaker, offered a pine box and his services if somebody would pay $5 for the use of the hearse.

Gamble for Hearse.

O'Malley issued a challenge to any person to play him a game of forty-five, the loser to pay for the hearse. No one accepted.

Last night Cohen telephoned O'Malley that he would shake him one flop of the dice for the $5. A pair of fives—the price of two nickel flops—won, and Shauneen Collins will be buried decently.

WOMEN HELD AS SHOPLIFTERS.

ADIEU PREENING!

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 2. — [Special.] — Three shades of suits for men and one grade of silk for women!

The Council of National Defense has declared itself in favor of such a regulation as a measure of wartime economy. Chicago's Boul. Mich. will put on a sedate appearance if war continues and the frugal plans of the commercial economy section of the council can be put into effect. The Beau Brummels and the feminine promenaders are to be asked to simplify their costumes. No patch pockets. No frills or furbelows. Just plain, straight cut garments of simple design and limited shades.

Due to the scarcity of cloth and leather, the commercial economy section has recommended most severe fashions for 1918. Shoe and boot makers are to be asked to limit their productions to one shade of black and two shades of tan shoes that will reach just above the ankle. For summer wear only low cut oxfords are recommended.

Shorter skirts have been recommended for women, but unless some measure of restraint is exercised it is feared the women will lengthen their shoe tops proportionately. The commercial economy section is in favor of more hosiery and less shoe leather.

In England there are just three kinds of suits available for business men and men of fashion. They cost about $12 a suit and differ principally in color.

The Council of National Defense is working on standard shoes and suits. The men's suits will be in three shades—gray, black, and indigo blue. Manufacturers in this country do not promise they will ever get men's suits down to $12 during the war.

Hugh McCaffery Is Made Manager of Burns Agency

Hugh McCaffery, one of the best known private detectives in the country, arrived in Chicago yesterday to become manager of the criminal department of the William J. Burns detective agency.

Mr. McCaffery has been on the coast for the last four years and his return was a surprise to his friends.

DEATH THREATS SENT TO MAYOR OF WAUKEGAN

Federal Inquiry Asked When Letter Writer Becomes Violent.

Federal officials were asked yesterday to investigate the case of William T. Fondray of 1338 South Wabash avenue, who is alleged to have sent Mayor W. W. Pierce of Waukegan and Walter E. Taylor, police magistrate, threats of death if they did not get out of town. Fondray's letter writing propensities first became known more than two years ago.

He was working at the American Steel and Wire company plant at that time and somehow or other got it into his head that Miss Eleanor Witham of Waukegan was his "soul mate." He had never met the lady, but that did not matter. He had seen her from afar and began writing love letters to her.

Marriage No Obstacle.

When Miss Witham was married to Charles Ebert, an official of the Corn Products company, it failed to shake Fondray. He kept on writing. One day Chief of Police Tom Tyrell grabbed Fondray and loaded him on a train bound for Chicago.

"Never show your face here again," said Chief Tom.

Eberts and his wife moved away. Fondray kept writing letters to Waukegan officials. All were filled with complaint. But recently they have grown worse, hence the request for his arrest. In the letter to Mayor Pierce and Police Magistrate Taylor he wrote:

Death Threat Made.

"If you are not out of Waukegan by Wednesday next, at 10 p. m., I shall have the people of the city use force to put you out, and don't ever attempt to come back under penalty of death."

Gas Fumes from Auto Kill Chauffeur and Son

Edward Goldsworthy, a chauffeur, and his son, Edward, 12 years old, were found dead under an automobile truck in a barn in the rear of 3125 Union avenue yesterday, victims of petromortis.

One Wife Blames "the Wild Women" and Wins Divorce.

ALOISA DAY, 4944 Kenmore avenue, explained that her husband, Edwin W. Day, had charge of the investigation department of the fire prevention bureau. Then she added:

"He said there had been a lot of big fires, and that he had to investigate, but he was with the wild, wild women." Register sheets from six hotels were introduced, and Judge Brothers read "E. W. Day and wife" six times, Mrs. Day said she wasn't the "wife" referred to, and the judge granted her a divorce.

"Before Ed left me he told me he wanted to be free," said Mrs. Mabel Fogarty, 5951 South Green street. Both are free.

Ernestine M. Harrison said Stephen wrote her a note saying he was about to die, and that he wanted to see her.

"When I got to him he tried to throw me out of a window," said Mrs. Harrison. A decree was granted.

A. J. JOHNSON IS CANDIDATE FOR CITY LIBRARIAN

The first known candidate for the job of city librarian is Alexander J. Johnson, who for several months has been a member of the city civil service commission.

Mr. Johnson, who is the publisher of a foreign language newspaper, resigned his job yesterday. In a letter to Mayor Thompson he stated that he intended to be a candidate for the librarianship and did not want to continue as a commissioner because it is one of the duties of the commission to frame the questions to be asked of applicants for the job as head of the library system.

Finger Nipped as He Grabs Thief's Gun and Saves Self

Morris Minch, 3621 South Wabash avenue, was shot in the first finger of the left hand last night when he resisted the attempts of two Negroes to rob him. The robbers fled.

Minch had left his grocery store and had reached his house when the two men ordered him to hold up his hands. He attempted to seize one of the revolvers and it was discharged.

NEW YEAR BALL OF RAGEN COLTS BRANDED AS ORGY

According to a report issued last night by the Juvenile Protective association, soldiers and sailors in uniform were served freely with liquor at the New Year's eve dance of the Ragen Benevolent and Protective association at the Coliseum. The Ragens are a political organization centering around the stockyards. The police made little or no effort to control the affair.

"The vilest dance ever attended by our officers," is one expression in the report, with the information that "startling indecencies, gross misconduct, wholesale intoxication, and general violation of city ordinances were found on a greatly enlarged scale."

According to Miss Jessie F. Binford, superintendent of the association, more than 100 soldiers and sailors attended the dance, and after midnight a majority of them seemed intoxicated.

Method of Procedure.

The procedure, says the report, was to slip money to civilians, who would order drinks. When the "coast was clear" the liquor would be downed in full view of the bartenders and patrons.

"Liquor was sold to minors in a notoriously open fashion," according to the report. "At least seventy-five boys, obviously under legal age, became intoxicated.

"Two young girls of about 17 were put out of the barroom because of obscene conduct and were later discovered on the dance hall floor almost helpless from the use of liquor.

"At 12:30 thirteen self-confessed minors were noticed drinking at the bar. The attention of officer 1155, who was specially detailed at the dance, was called to the fact. He asked the minors for registration cards, and each one admitted that he was under age.

"About 2 o'clock a young girl of 19, helplessly drunk, was carried by her intoxicated companions to the center of the hall, where the burden became too great, and she was unceremoniously dumped on the floor, in view of the crowd. When men and women officers from the Juvenile Protective association carried her to a corner and placed her on chairs where she would be comfortable and inconspicuous, they were brutally assaulted by two plain clothes men.

"Conduct Indescribable."

"The conduct of many of the patrons was indescribable," the report says. "Two Canadian soldiers were the object of particular attention of three women seated at tables. One of them sat on a woman's lap with his arms about her neck; all were intoxicated. In one of the booths in the main auditorium there was a soldier kissing a woman, and a second lieutenant in the medical corps was also caressing two women.

"Fights were a common occurrence. One took place at the east end of the hall. The combatants were hustled downstairs, officer 1155 being first on the job." "Tickets of admission," the report continues, "were sold until nearly 3 a. m., in violation of the city ordinance."

"During the last two months our organization has made repeated inspections of special bar permit dances. Flagrant violations of federal and state laws and of city ordinances have been observed. Reports on these conditions have been sent to the federal authorities, to the State Council of Defense, and to the department of police.

"We have never been able to secure either city or state legislation or police action to protect our own young people from these vicious, demoralizing special bar permit dances."

Ragen Denies Charges.

County Commissioner Frank Ragen, head of the organization that gave the dance, denounced the report of the association as a "mass of lies." His wife, who was present when he made the denial and who attended the dance, joined in his assertion.

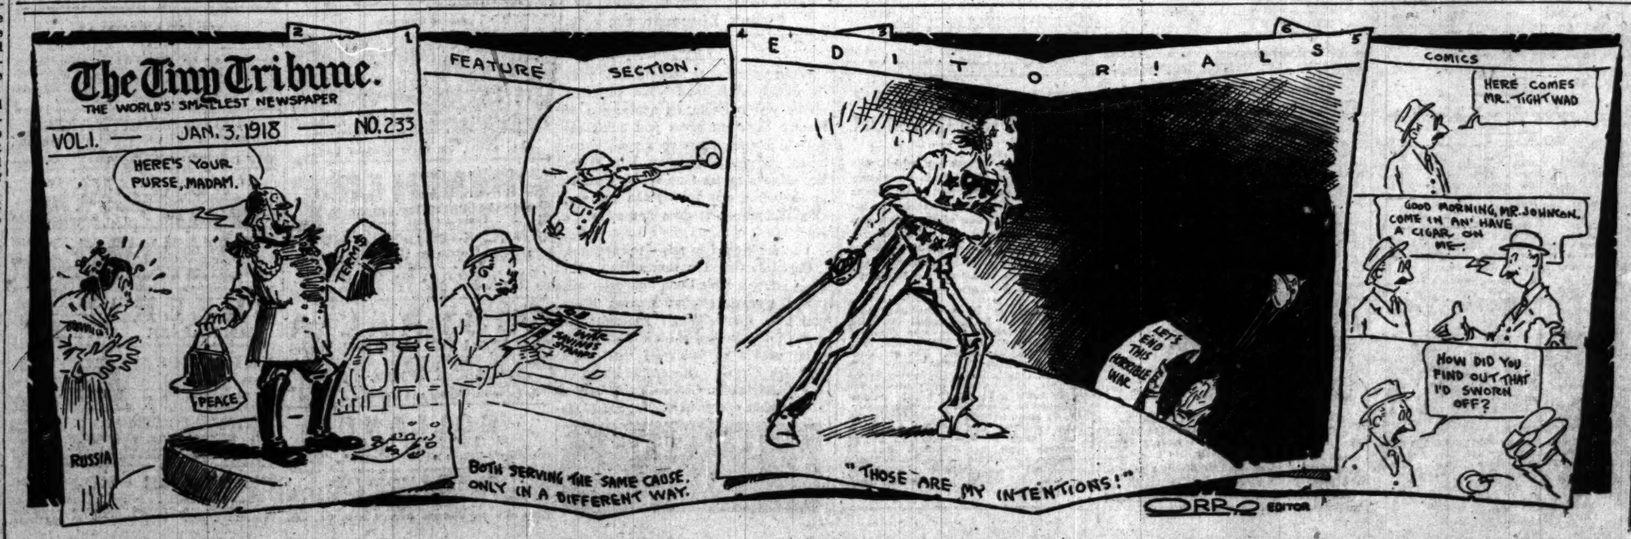

"The best evidence that the report is entirely true is found in the report of the police," said Mr. Ragen. "I was at the door as the hall closed and the sergeant in charge told me it was a great dance and that everything had been fine. We took particular pains to see that no soldiers and sailors should obtain liquor. Prominent men and their wives were in attendance. I do not know what the Juvenile Protective association is or who runs it, but if there is any way of making it pay for its false statements I intend to employ it."

BARMAID FINED $15 UPON WIFE'S SLAYING CHARGE

It was the contention of Mrs. Alex Johnson of 6201 Blackstone avenue that Beatrice Pype kicked Alex so hard that he dropped dead twenty-four hours later. But Judge Hosea Wells couldn't see it that way.

Beatrice was acting as barmaid in the saloon of her father at 5491 Lake Park avenue on Nov. 21. Johnson regaled himself with a glass of grog and declined to pay for it. Miss Pype presented her demand in a new light, applying what is termed as "the boot." The next day Johnson returned to the saloon and fell dead.

Yesterday Miss Pype was taken into court, accused of causing Johnson's death. Judge Wells held that the connection between the death and the kick was too remote and fined Miss Pype $15 for assault.

GRAHAMS' OFFER TO AID INQUIRY IS TURNED DOWN

State's Attorney's Aid Says They Will Not Be Witnesses.

There was a string attached to the formal acceptance yesterday of the proposal of Ralph R. and Frank J. Graham for a continuance of the inquiry into the affairs of the Graham & Sons bank by the December grand jury.

The proposal of the two sons of the late Andrew J. Graham was that grand jury action be withheld until they can be given a chance to clear the family name. They suggested that they would submit themselves to examination in the presence of stenographers and would present every bit of documentary evidence in their possession concerning the condition of the bank and on the big question whether they accepted deposits after they knew the institution was insolvent.

Time Is Extended.

The December grand jury considered the main part of the proposal favorably. That is, it reported to Chief Justice George Kersten in the Criminal court and asked for an extension of time in which to continue the bank inquiry. The court granted the request.

Then Charles Center Case, assistant state's attorney in charge of the case, disclosed the string. He said that probably neither Ralph R. nor Frank J. Graham will be called as a witness in the inquiry. He said neither had waived immunity or had been asked to waive it. He indicated that no chances would be taken with the statute granting immunity to the offender who gives testimony aiding the conviction of himself.

"While it has not been definitely decided," he said, "whether the Grahams will be allowed to testify, I don't think they will. We are making good progress and should finish the inquiry within ten days."

To Issue Subpœnas.

Mr. Case indicated that subpœnas duces tecum will be used for the production of all the bank records and other documentary evidence relating to its affairs. Whether the investigation will be conducted in the Criminal Court building has not been determined.

After submitting its report at noon the grand jury adjourned to meet for its final session as a regular body tomorrow. Then it will adjourn, subject to the call of the state's attorney.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—SUGAR—There were further sales of 92,000 bags reported in the local raw sugar market and prices were unchanged at 4.985c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.005c for centrifugal. In refined prices were unchanged at 8.15@8.35c for fine granulated, with business still light. The new prices based on 6.005c per pound for 96 test centrifugal, are to take effect at the opening of business on Jan. 7, and be continued until further notice from the international sugar committee. The margin allowed would indicate that the revised prices will be on the basis of between 7.30c and 7.85c for fine granulated.

MARKET COMMENT

It was thought in the market that the tenor of the president's coming message to congress anent the railroads, will be also of a constructive nature. Certainly the securities market responded briskly to the feeling that the government intends to coöperate with capital throughout the period of the war at least. After that it is expected a better understanding will have been reached.

Wall street had a peace wave, among other waves, that influenced sentiment. There was considerable discussion of what stocks best represented the industrial benefits that will follow peace. Harvester company issues were favored. National Biscuit is another peace stock. It was declared also that the steel concerns would have their capacity employed to the limit in the work of reconstructing the devastated territory abroad. But a glance over the entire list of stocks would indicate that all came pretty much in the peace stock class.

There was considerable realizing in the railroad list. Those stocks had such a swift upturn last week that they are now accommodating themselves to profit taking.

Eastern bond houses reported a large increase in the demand for bonds. Railroad issue were regarded with higher favor than for many months past. This was easily accounted for by the attitude of the government toward the roads.

CITY'S LARGEST BANKS SHOW BIG GAIN IN PROFITS

Continental's Earnings on Its Capital Stock Are 23.53 Per Cent.

Reports of profits of the Continental and Commercial National bank and the First National bank and First Trust and Savings bank for the year ended Dec. 31, 1917, show that earnings on the capital stock of the Continental and Commercial National were 23.53 per cent, against 17.99 in 1916.

On the combined capital stock surplus and undivided profits of the Continental and its two affiliated institutions, the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings bank and the Hibernian Banking association, the profits were 11.91 per cent, against 9.38 per cent the previous year.

First National Shows Gain.

J. B. Forgan, chairman of the board of the First National bank, announced that combined profits of the affiliated banks—that is, the First National and the First Trust and Savings—were on the capital, surplus, and undivided profits 9½ per cent, against 7¼ per cent in 1916. After having made provisions for depreciation and losses, both actual and anticipated, and for excess profits and other taxes the combined net profits of the two banks were $3,127,709. The dividends paid amounted to $2,200,000, leaving the surplus above dividends for the year at $927,709.

Mr. Forgan says in his statement to shareholders that the rent roll of the First National bank building shows an increase of over 6 per cent. Increased costs, however, offset the gain in earnings, leaving the net profits practically the same as 1916, being sufficient to pay 6 per cent per annum in dividends and provide for depreciation. The share capital of the First Trust and Savings is $5,000,000; the surplus fund $5,500,000, and undivided profits $148,797. The share capital of the First National is $10,000,000, the surplus fund $12,000,000, and undivided profits $1,173,732.

Pays 14 Per Cent Dividend.

G. M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National bank, says of the earnings of that institution, the capital, surplus, and undivided profits of which amount to $33,000,000:

"After providing fully for bad and doubtful items, and after having reserved $1,555,700 for 1917 taxes to be paid by the three banks, which amount to approximately $716,000 more than last year, the net profits for the year were $5,060,077.09.

"The regular dividends, aggregating 12 per cent, have been paid during the year, and in addition there was paid on Dec. 31 an extra dividend of 2 per cent, making a total dividend for the year of 14 per cent and leaving the sum of $2,046,477.09. From this amount the board of directors by unanimous vote appropriated $300,000 to be used in establishing a pension fund, which becomes effective at once, leaving $1,746,477.09 to be added to undivided profits, representing a gain in the book value of the stock of the Continental and Commercial National bank of $8.12 per share, bringing the present book value up to $206.01 per share.

"I would also call your attention to the excellent position of the Continental and Commercial Bank building, which has at the present time 99 per cent of its total available space rented to tenants of the highest class. The demand for space continues, and in fact we have a waiting list of those desiring to obtain offices in our building at the first opportunity. The building shows for the last year a net return of 10 per cent on the $6,000,000 invested by the bank and is more than fulfilling expectations."

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Merchants' Loan and Trust company yesterday the following were reëlected as directors to serve for the ensuing year: Frank H. Armstrong, Clarence A. Burley, Henry P. Crowell, Hale Holden, Marvin Hughitt, Edmund D. Hulbert, Chauncey Keep, Cyrus H. McCormick, Seymour Morris, John S. Runnels, Edward L. Ryerson, John G. Shedd, Orson Smith, Albert A. Sprague II., Homer A. Stillwell, and Moses J. Wentworth.

Real Estate Transfers

Real estate transfers filed for record yesterday totaled 181 in number, involving a stated consideration of $100,078, comprising 158 in the city and 23 in the outlying townships, including 13 under the Torrens system. Transfers were as follows:

The Chicago Real Estate board has sent to Fuel Administrator Garfield at Washington a telegram urging the lifting of the ban on the shipment of Pocahontas coal into Chicago in order that apartment building owners may be enabled to keep their structures properly heated during the winter cold spells. It is claimed that sufficient heat cannot be obtained from Illinois or soft coal, which is the only kind building owners can now obtain.

Action upon the matter was urged by Adolph F. Kramer of Draper & Kramer, who stated that in the recent cold spell it was almost impossible to keep apartment buildings properly heated with soft coal, and there resulted much hardship among tenants. President Perkins B. Bass was authorized to send a telegram to Dr. Garfield, and the following was dispatched:

Brings Great Hardship.

"Over 75 per cent of Chicago's flat buildings are equipped with heating plants especially adapted for the use of Pocahontas coal. The cutting off of the supply of this coal has brought great hardship to many owners and tenants. The continuance of this supply will enable the owners to modify their heating plants during the warm weather for use of Illinois coal next winter."

The date of the annual banquet of the board, scheduled for Jan. 12, has been changed to Saturday, Jan. 19, according to an announcement made at the meeting by Wyllys W. Baird of the banquet committee. Mr. Baird stated the preparations for the affair were proceeding very satisfactorily and that an excellent program will be arranged. The change in the by-laws of the organization by which the membership of its valuation committee will be reduced from fifteen to five will be discussed at a special meeting Thursday, Jan. 10.

South Shore Deal.

There was little of an important character in the real estate market yesterday, the leading deal covering the sale of a valuable apartment building in the south shore section. The eighteen apartment building at the northwest corner of Seventieth place and Crandon avenue, 127x127 feet, has been purchased by A. B. Crist from Seth Anderson for a reported price of $85,000, subject to $53,500 incumbrance. In part payment the purchaser transferred to Mr. Anderson a 160 acre farm at Plymouth, Ind., with a value of $20,000, it is said, and two buildings of three apartments each at 5219-21 Kimbark avenue, having a total value of $26,000, subject to an incumbrance of $12,000. The transaction was negotiated by George W. Simpson of J. L. Hess & Co.

TRACE DISEASE TO CONSTIPATION

One of the points on which different schools of medicine practically agree is, that about 95% of all human disease is directly traceable to intestinal putrefaction of stomach waste due to inactivity of the bowels, or constipation. The eliminative process is an essential factor in digestion and on its proper functioning depends the welfare of the entire system.

Constipation is a condition that should never be neglected. As soon as the bowels evidence the slightest disposition to slow up, a mild laxative should be taken. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle, is highly recommended as a corrective, acting gently, in an easy, natural way, without griping or other pain or discomfort. A trial bottle of this excellent family remedy can be obtained, free of charge, by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois, for whom this advertisement is published.

BOSTON STOCK TRANSACTIONS

Boston, Mass., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—The local list was almost uniformly higher today. Trading was quite lively and traders were more cheerful than in a long time. Public interest grew during the day. The report that the governor may recommend remedial legislation in behalf of the Boston Elevated caused that stock to be active and strong. The news that the government will not press its corporation dissolution suits helped United Shoe Machinery. It is said that the government's investigation into the rising cost of shoe manufacture has shown that the United Shoe Machinery is not a factor in increasing the price of shoes. Call money ruled at 6 per cent; time loans, short dates, 6 per cent; time loans, six months, 6 per cent; time loans, one year, 6 per cent.

Total sales of stocks, 1,135,000 shares. Total sales of bonds [par value], $4,550,000.

STOCKS CONTINUE RISE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—After the announcement from Washington that at the request of the department of justice the United States Supreme court had postponed until the next session the government suits against the United States Steel corporation and other combinations alleged to be in restraint of trade there was another sensational advance in the industrial issues and many fresh evidences of returning confidence of investors.

The reasons given by the attorney general for the postponement reflected, Wall street thought, a sincere desire on the part of the administration for the conservation of the great industrial organizations of the country and induced heavy buying of stocks by persons who have recently been frightened out of the market by the widely circulated reports that the government would adopt a contrary policy.

Buying Orders Pour In.

Buying orders in United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, American Can, and the other corporations affected by the decision poured into the street from all parts of the country in great volume. Under their impulse steel rose from 91⅞ to 96¼, Bethlehem Steel B from 75⅝ to 80¼, and American Can from 38⅞ to 41⅛, with slight reactions toward the close.

Advances of five points were common throughout the list of industrial shares, but railroad stocks developed a halting tendency and in some cases there were moderate reactions. There was no selling of these issues; they were merely neglected. They apparently have had their day for the time being. Their future course will be determined largely by the president's recommendation to congress as to the guarantee of earnings and the proposals for the financial relief of these properties.

No one doubts but that they will be treated fairly by the president, but there is some anxiety lest there be some opposition to his recommendations in congress.

Russian News Aids Bulls.

Another bullish factor today was a report from London that the peace negotiations at Brest-Litovsk had been broken off by the Bolshevik representatives because of their discovery of the insincerity of the German proposals. The motor stocks were especially benefited. There were big advances in General Motors, Studebaker, Maxwell, Willys-Overland, Stutz, and other stocks of that class.

The shipping shares, led by Atlantic, Gulf, and West Indies, rose sharply.

FINANCIAL NOTES

ALL previous records for a single day's business and a week's business was broken by the sales of F. W. Woolworth company's stores on Dec. 24 and the seven days preceding Christmas. Sales on Dec. 24 amounted to $1,653,225, compared with $1,629,982 on the same day in 1916, a gain of $23,243. For the seven days before Christmas sales were $7,259,400, compared with $6,756,119 for the same period in 1916, a gain of $503,208.

The price paid in the purchase of the ... holdings of B. R. T. is reported to have been something over $40 a share.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul made an unfavorable exhibit for the month of November. Gross decreased $64,949, while expenses increased $1,782,-... The net operating income for the month decreased $1,847,306. The showing was indicative of the downward trend of railroad profits brought about by increases in costs of operation due to wage raises and prices of materials. In eleven months of 1917 the road's net operating income decreased $7,620,177. In the early part of the year there were increases in gross, but the total for eleven months amounted to but $5,186,-...

Directors of the Pacific Gas and Electric company have omitted the regular quarterly dividend, usually declared at this time, on the common stock. Increased operating expenses and a desire to use profits to increase working capital are the reasons for the action.

Union Bag and Paper common stock has been stricken from the list of the New York stock exchange.

ON THE BROAD STREET CURB

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—The feature of the market on the Broad street curb was the continued strength in Chevrolet, which had a violent advance to 112 after opening at 100. Other motor stocks were also in good demand.

The oil stocks as a group were strong, although business was comparatively small in volume.

GOVERNMENT HALTS ANTI-TRUST SUITS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Attorney General Gregory today asked the Supreme court to defer argument on the seven large anti-trust suits pending, including the International Harvester, United Shoe Machinery, and the Steel corporation cases, until the next term of court.

This action, Solicitor General Davis explained, was taken because the government wants coöperation from the business interests of the country. The suits postponed are those of the government against the United Shoe Machinery company, the International Harvester company, the United States Steel corporation, Eastman Kodak company, the American Can company, the Quaker Oats company, and the Corn Products Refining company.

"In order that the government in this time of stress may not meet with competition from private enterprises in its financial operations," said the government's brief filed in connection with the motion, "and the flotation of its loans, the treasury department has been constrained to urge that all private financing on a large scale shall be avoided as far as at all possible.

"It is quite clear that the dissolutions which are sought in the pending cases will require financial operations on a large scale, if they are to be genuine and effective. Important as the remedy sought in these cases is believed to be, it must give place for the moment to the paramount needs of the hour."

Attorneys for the Steel corporation and the shoe machinery company gave notice that objections to the government's motion would be made, and the court granted them until Friday to file their briefs in opposition. The motion to continue the other cases was granted by the court.

In opposing the government's motion, the Steel corporation contends that a decision should be rendered in the suit against it as soon as possible, as delay is unfair to the corporations, its stockholders, and employés.

TICKER GOSSIP

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—A bond house states that the long decline in bond values since this country entered the war has resulted in a recession of 12 to 14 per cent below the average at the beginning of the year and some 25 per cent below the average since 1905.

"It should give confidence to investors," it says, "to reflect upon what has been accomplished since the outbreak of war 1914. In that period we have repurchased from Europe over $1,500,000,000 of American railroad securities alone; we have loaned to our allies $5,618,400,000; we have built up the greatest gold reserve in the history of the world and have added enormously to the trade balances in our favor. Since our own entry into the war nine months ago our government has raised $5,808,767,150 in loans without a strain on our banking system.

"In spite of the large problems of taxation, etc., we see nothing in the situation which threatens the safety of bonds of the type which we recommend for investment."

Many an employer of labor must now wish he had long ago introduced a profit sharing plan—a profit sharing plan, that is, that would be also a loss sharing plan. The employés of the steel corporation must be feeling to a small extent what such a policy would now mean.

Directors of the United States Steel corporation will meet on the last Tuesday of the current month to act on dividends and approve the report for the quarter ending Dec. 31.

It is estimated that earnings for the fourth quarter of last year will be smaller than in the third quarter, due largely to increasing cost of production and poor railroad facilities. December is expected to make a poor showing as transportation facilities were at their worst in that month.

The price at which employés of the steel corporation will be entitled to subscribe for the company's stock under the usual stock subscription plan will be $92 a share.

One broker thought that the railroads today were weak on account of the lack of buying power. The industrials today knew nothing about this lack of buying power, neither did the railroads themselves last week, after the president's announcement. Delaware and Hudson and Reading were strong, not so much on the coal shortage, perhaps, which has been appreciated all along, but on the new priority arrangements which may enable the coal to be moved more quickly.

It may have been thought that the repurchase of stocks which had been sold to register 1917 losses on income tax slips had an intimate connection with today's rise. It was not so. The strength was in the industrials, in Texas company, General Motors, General Electric, the Steel shares, and if it had been this repurchasing it would have shown itself in the railroad list.

Owing to the unprecedented demand, both from military and other causes, it is likely that the next few months will see a pronounced shortage in the supply of crude oil. The daily output of the midcontinent fields is already less than the current demand and indications are that the disparity between supply and demand will make striking increases. The particularly strong demand for petroleum is steadily growing.

ON THE THRESHOLD OF THE NEW YEAR

WE, AS A NATION AND AS INDIVIDUAL CITIZENS, FACE THE UNCERTAINTIES ATTENDANT UPON A GREAT WAR. Out of it are emerging personal and financial changes which will profoundly affect property holdings.

THE prudent man is safeguarding his property by the most conservative measures. The prudent testator is looking beyond his own lifetime, uncertain as that is, and definitely arranging in his will for a successor to control and protect the estate he leaves his dependents.

THIS is no time to take chances. He must feel sure that the executor and trustee he appoints will not fail him, will be competent, resourceful and will survive.

THE more he knows about the history of estate losses, the more certain he will be to name a well equipped, responsible trust company, which MAKES A BUSINESS of managing estates and is permanently available when needed.

WE cordially invite men of property, whether they own much or little, to discuss with our trust officers this more than ever important matter. Our suggestions will be based on wide experience; they may aid you and will not obligate you.

GRAIN FUTURES ARE DEPRESSED BY PEACE RUMORS

Peace talk was the chief depressing influence in the market for oats futures yesterday and caused prices to sell off sharply from the early high points. May oats closed unchanged, but other deliveries were steady to ⅜c lower. Prices were easier at the outset but rallied quickly, and under liberal buying by export houses the market advanced substantially above the previous close.

Local shorts covered on the way up and many of them went long, with the result that much of this weakly held stuff had to be unloaded toward the last. Commission houses were active on both sides of the market, some of them buying oats here and selling at Winnipeg in way of a spread.

Cash oats were steady, with local shipping sales 355,000 bu, including 300,000 bu for export. Outside points also worked some oats for export and the total in all positions was placed at 700,000 bu. Arrivals here were 220 cars. Primary receipts totaled 1,143,000 bu, against 627,000 bu a year ago. Country offerings of cash oats were reported as moderate.

Narrow Range for Corn.

Corn futures moved over a narrow range, with volume of trade still small. The market was influenced by the action of oats and at the finish was unchanged for January and ⅜@½c lower for May. Wagner bought a fair quantity of May corn early in the session and the market at one time was ¼c better than the previous close. Armour and Bartlett-Frazier were good sellers, while around top figures most of the commission houses had resting orders to sell corn.

Peace talk also was a factor here in influencing values. The heavy fall of snow was expected to slow up the movement of grain and curtail receipts of corn at the primary markets, but cars are more plentiful and improvement is expected when the weather is more favorable.

Cash corn was steady to 5c lower with local shipping sales 30,000 bu. Receipts of corn here were 208 cars. Primary markets had 989,000 bu compared with 1,366,000 bu a year ago. Further rain is reported in Argentina and the corn crop is making good progress under the favorable weather conditions.

Rye Price Cent Higher.

Rye was 1c higher. Cash No. 2 sold at $1.84 and No. 3 at $1.83. Receipts were 10 cars.

Barley ruled easy to 1c lower. Malting was quoted $1.42@1.59 and sold $1.43@1.57; feed and mixing quotable $1.40@1.52, and screenings 85c@$1.25, with the former selling at $1.50. Receipts were 56 cars.

Timothy seed was strong. March sold at $9.25 and cash lots at $7.40@7.75. Clover seed was easy, with cash quotable at $21.00@27.00 and spot prime $28.05.

Flax closed 5c higher. Cash was quoted $3.57@3.60.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—DRY GOODS—Dry goods markets here today were quiet largely because of the paralysis brought on by the extremely cold weather. Heating arrangements during the cold spell collapsed in the cotton district and crippled the wholesale cotton goods market.

GOSSIP OF THE PIT

Exporters were bidding strongly for cash oats yesterday, most of the business here being on the basis of 18½c over May price, track Newport News. Sales in all positions were reported at 700,000 bu. It was understood that the Wheat Export company withdrew from the market following yesterday's purchases, and will be out for several days at least. Demand for cash oats was brisk in the spot market here, with No. 3 white selling 4¼@4½c over May price and standards 4½@5c over. There were 10,000 bu standard oats sold in store at 3¼c over May, or ½c over January.

Bradstreet's report of the available supply of wheat and flour in North America shows an increase of 1,215,000 bu for the week, compared with an increase of 2,870,000 bu a year ago. Total stock is 77,933,000 bu, compared with 167,158,000 bu a year ago. Corn increased 310,000 bu to a total of 3,816,000 bu, against 7,525,000 bu a year ago. Oats increased 2,933,000 bu to a total of 27,778,000 bu, against 78,533,000 bu a year ago.

One of the local cash corn handlers reported that he had purchased corn in the southwest at 6c under the spot price here. Country offerings of corn to arrive from Iowa were larger, especially from stations along the Rock Island and St. Paul, which are furnishing cars more freely. St. Louis reported that points in Iowa were offering corn there for quick shipment at 16c under present cash quotations.

The Baltimore and Ohio road has issued an order, effective at midnight today, prohibiting the acceptance of all freight except coal, coke, and oil, in carload lots or less, from all stations on their own and connecting lines.

Trading in corn and oats for July delivery is desired by many, but exchange officials here will not give the order unless word comes from the food administration to do so. There' is an agreement at present to trade no further ahead than May delivery. However, some of the outside markets have commenced to trade in July contracts, although such quotations are not posted here.

"There is a world of corn and oats back in this territory, and we believe farmers will sell freely at present prices," says a Streator, Ill., message to J. E. Bennett & Co. "Corn shellers report that they have a large waiting list of farmers ready to shell. Husking has delayed shelling in some sections."

Farmers, individually and through their associations, as well as national grain bodies, are protesting against the maximum prices on corn futures at the various terminal markets, and it is understood that they are urging officials of the food administration to have them removed.

Receipts inspected yesterday: Wheat, 14 cars; corn, 203 cars; oats, 220 cars; rye, 10 cars; barley, 56 cars. Hogs estimated for today, 43,000 head.

Edward J. Schaack, John N. Weinand, Harry B. Signor, and Sefton Tranter have been admitted to partnership in the firm of Ware & Leland.

It is understood that commission houses will be given until Feb. 1 to file their questionaires with the federal trade commission.

COTTON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—COTTON—The cotton market showed increasing activity and strength during today's trading, with all positions making new high records for the season. January contracts sold up to 31.44c, or 64 points net higher, while late months were even firmer, with October touching 29.35c, making an advance of 77 points from Monday's closing. The close was within a few points of the top, with the tone strong at a net gain of 55 to 77 points. The market opened steady at an advance of 12 to 24 points on Liverpool buying, covering, and a renewed demand from houses with mill connections. The advance met considerable realizing and increased hedge selling, and after showing net gains of about 33 to 46 points the market reacted. Rather heavy offerings seemed to be readily absorbed on setbacks of 18 or 20 points, however, and the market became strong during the afternoon. October was relatively firm, reflecting the unfavorable view of new crop prospects based partly on the continued drought in the southwest, and houses with Japanese connections were again credited with buying that position. March sold up to 30.90c and May to 30.61c in the late trading, when the general list showed net gains of 60 to 77 points. Exports were 1,750 bales, making 2,074,301 bales so far this season. Port receipts, 16,701 bales; United States port stocks, 1,328,217 bales. Futures:

ANOTHER $10,000 MAN PLACED YESTERDAY.
Besides a $6,000 Purchasing Agent and a raft of Accountants, Bookkeepers, Salesmen, Stenographers, and Clerks.
And you are still asleep on the job.
Don't let all of these opportunities slip past you.
Now that the holidays are over let's get down to business. We have several hundred high grade jobs actually open, paying from $600 to $30,000, and we're more than glad to talk them over with you, and it doesn't cost you a cent to do this. You will eventually come to us because after all your attempts and investigations you will find that we actually have the goods.
Neither of these jobs we filled have ever been advertised by us, and tomorrow we hope to report two $20,000 placements.
Remember, in our two institutions we have over 30 people that do nothing but interview applicants and employers, compiling data and placing the information in stock.
We're merchandisers of men. We expect to place 100,000 the coming year, but we must have the stock of merchandise to fill these jobs as they come in. All interviews and information positively confidential.
I'm not going to mention a single job. You know what we handle:
Executive, Office, Sales, Technical, and Clerical Men, $600 to $30,000 per year.
Come on, let's get together. You're up to bat right now. Are you going to "FAN" again?
